PREMIER BARES NEW PEACE PLAN

Contractor Seeks Road Job Injunction

GOES TO COURT AFTER LOSING PAVING AWARD

Claims County Commissioners Action on $68,000 Contract 'Without Foundation.'

MAY COST HELP OF PWA

County Board Goes to Columbus to Seek Approval of Its Action on Resurfacing

W. W. Purdy, Mansfield contractor, said today he would file an action against Richland county commissioners seeking an injunction to prevent them from carrying out a proposed $68,000 PWA road resurfacing project in the county.

Purdy's announcement followed the awarding late yesterday of a contract for the road project to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company on a bid that was $5,000 more than one submitted by Purdy.

May Cost PWA Aid.

The action which today was in the hands of Attys. Henkel and Gongwer, threatens to cost the county more than $30,000 in federal funds for the county if the suit holds up final approval of the road project, first attempted in the county under PWA, until after the deadline, Dec. 31.

All PWA projects given tentative approval in 1938 must receive final approval by Dec. 31 to entitle the sponsoring sub-division to share in federal funds.

Purdy said he would base his suit on the contention that commissioners "made the award without foundation." Purdy had submitted a bid for $49,598 and the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company bid was $54,675.

Commissioners, who said they had been advised by PWA authorities to award the contract to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, were in Columbus today to seek PWA approval of the contract.

Object To Gravel.

Commissioners said they rejected Purdy's bid because he quoted a price on gravel for "black-top" resurfacing material while they preferred limestone because of its durability.

They said Purdy submitted his bid a few minutes before bids were opened last Wednesday and wrote in "gravel" on the bid sheet which listed limestone as the material desired by the county.

Since the advertisement for bids did not specify stone, Purdy said submitted his gravel bid in accordance with state highway department specifications under which the county awards its road contracts. State specifications, he said, permit the use of gravel, stone or slag in "black-top" construction.

WHAT does South America mean to us? How important a part is it in our economic life? How deep are the inroads European nations have made in their drive for South American trade?

These are vital questions of the day—made especially so by the Pan American conference now in progress in Lima, Peru.

An unusual number of important decisions will come out of this conference.

To make the background clearer, The News-Journal today presents an unusual map. It's on Page 15. It tells you facts you probably never knew about South America. About the vastness of the country, its proximity to Europe as compared to North America, its wealth, and—most interesting of all—the influence of the dictator nations of Europe among South American countries.

It is a map that tells more than thousands of words could tell. We recommend your close study of it. In fact it might not be a bad idea to save the map, and refer to it each time you read a story about the Pan American conference. It will make scores of things clearer. And, of course, The News-Journal will bring you the best possible coverage of the conference itself, through its three great wire services—Associated Press, United Press and International News Service.

TALK TONIGHT TO DISCLOSE FUTURE AIMS

HITLER SENDS ENVOY

Correspondents, Ministers in British Cabinet, Leading Ambassadors to Attend.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A new 30-day whirlwind appeasement drive to settle Europe's outstanding differences took shape today, with Prime Minister Chamberlain in a key role and the possibility of German designs upon Lithuanian Memel one major problem.

His speech (at 4:40 p. m. EST) before the Foreign Press association tonight held attention of the diplomatic world which expected a complete outline of British foreign policy and an indication what the premier intended doing from today until Jan. 14 when he ends a visit to Premier Mussolini in Rome.

Impressive Guest List.

The importance of the speech, on the association's 50th anniversary, was indicated by the guest list which included most of the British cabinet ministers, leading ambassadors and ministers, and 150 foreign correspondents representing 35 countries.

Chancellor Hitler sent Gottfried Aschmann, head of the German foreign office department, as a representative. The ambassadors included those from Belgium, Brazil, France, Germany, Italy, Poland and Soviet Russia.

Chamberlain was expected to enlarge upon the government's attitude toward Memel and may discuss the British position toward military assistance for France, political-economic agreement with Germany, and political understanding with Italy.

Uneasiness was displayed over Chamberlain's reference to military assistance for France, and there were many who urged clarification of his assertion Britain had no pact or treaty specifically requiring her to aid France against Italy.

The assertion answered questions relating to the Italian propaganda campaign for French territory.

Sent to London.

The opening wedge in settlement of immediate major differences with Germany likely will be

Two Years After---

It's Fun Being Duke--- And It's Fun Being King

WHEN Edward VIII abdicated two years ago this month, folks said he'd lead a gay, easy life while his brother would put in a lot of hard, solid work being king. Well, let's take a look at the pictorial record of the last two years.

The Duke Of Windsor . . .

The King Of England . . .

More Stars to Face U. S. Smuggling Quiz

Comedian George Burns Indicted; Jack Benny, Hepburn Testify.

NEW YORK — The United States Attorney's office disclosed today that a federal grand jury was still taking evidence of purported smuggling by movie stars, and that others in addition to the comedian George Burns might be indicted.

Katherine Hepburn, Jack Benny, Jack Pearl and Wallace Ford; Ralph Hitz, hotel operator and Joseph Moskowitz, 20th Century Fox films executive, have appeared before the grand jury. Presumably they were questioned about their knowledge of Albert N. Chaperau, principal defendant in the case, who allegedly smuggled in jewelry and finery from Paris and disposed of them at bargain prices to a select clientele.

Burns, admittedly, was one of these. He pleaded guilty yesterday to nine counts contained in two indictments. He had been charged with buying from Chaperau two diamond-studded bracelets and a ring worth $4,885. He bought them for Grace Allen, his wife and partner in the celebrated team of Burns and Allen.

Burns was released in custody of his attorney, Col. William J. Donovan. He will return next week reportedly as a government witness, at the trial of Chaperau and Mrs. Edgar J. Lauer, wife of a New York supreme court justice who also is charged with having accepted smuggled goods.

Although he is liable to a possible maximum sentence of 18 years imprisonment and a $45,000 fine, the charges against Burns are technically misdemeanors, rather than felonies, and it was assumed that his sentence would be light, especially if he provided government evidence.

COUNTY RELIEF LOAD HITS NEW LOW FOR YEAR

Gains in Private Employment Also Cut Number on WPA; Relief Costs Go Up.

A marked increase in private employment reduced the number of Richland county families on relief to a new low for the year during November and also trimmed the WPA rolls, reports showed today.

Direct relief costs, however, in Mansfield, Shelby and 11 participating townships were $2,200 higher than in October, due largely to fuel bills caused by cold weather, Relief Director J. Verne Finney said.

The amount spent by the county's relief agencies for direct relief was $10,931.28 or $2,284.60 more than the October expenditures. The case load, Finney reported dropped from 877 cases in October to 838 in November.

City Case Load Drops.

The major portion of the decrease in the case load was shown in Mansfield where 553 families were provided with food, clothing and shelter at the cost of $7,268 as compared with the 627 families which were cared for at a cost of $6,143 during the previous month.

Finney's report showed that the county now has 1,145 on WPA, a decrease of 151 persons from the first of September when 1,296 were on the rolls, the peak figure in Richland county in the past three years.

He said the relief office was still making new assignments but that the Columbus office of WPA was not certifying them for employment because of the number of employes that private industry has absorbed.

Besides direct relief costs, Finney listed administrative expenditures of $1,306 for salaries and supplies, which figured 13.23 per cent or nearly 2 per cent below the maximum amount allowed for administration by the state.

The report showed non-adminis-

EDEN CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

Former British Secretary to 'Learn Something' on U. S. Foreign Affairs Views.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Debonair Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, came down from New York today with the avowed intenieion of "learning something of the American outlook on foreign affairs."

In his whirlwind two-day visit to the capital, Eden was expected to confine his talks with federal officials—beginning with a White House call—to a broad review of world problems.

The unofficial aspect of his visit was emphasized here, although it had the British cabinet's approval. No state welcome was arranged for his arrival, and none of the functions on his schedule are official gatherings. Appointments with President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of State Welles, and others were obtained as a member of the British House of Commons rather than a former cabinet official.

It was generally agreed, however, that this fact should facilitate rather than handicap a frank exchange of views such as he is seeking.

Eden's White House call today was his first opportunity to confer with President Roosevelt, for he never has visited the United States before. The conference gave the president a chance to get a first hand account of the English viewpoint, which will be developed further when Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy arrives from London later this month.

Wanna Learn 'Lambeth?' Then Come to Yule Ball

Everybody's doin' it!

What? Why, the Lambeth Walk. News dispatches today tell of Alfred M. Landon, a delegate to the Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru, being taught the Lambeth Walk at a night club; it's a favorite dance of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and the younger Roosevelts; Elsa Maxwell, international hostess, likes its galloping rhythm; it's being taught at private parties in Mansfield, not only in the "kids groups" but in the more sedate groups.

And it's "in the cards" for the Christmas ball Dec. 19 at the Coliseum. Everybody's going to have an opportunity to learn the simple steps of the most popular dance in America and England.

First it's going to be danced by the chorus from the Marty Hogan dance studio during the midnight show, with eight young women stepping off the dance, first as a ballroom dance and then as a tap.

Swing It, Sister!

And after the show, Miss Marguerite Speas, director of the Speas dance school, will line guests at the ball up on the floor and show 'em how it's done. And

PLUGS FOR WEST

Donahey Says Ex-Congressman Deserving of Good Job.

WASHINGTON —(INS)—Senator Vic Donahey (D) of Ohio, today urged the appointment of Charles West, former Ohio congressman "to a responsible position in the Roosevelt administration."

While Donahey did not specify the position he thought West should fill, he insisted it should be "a good position, because he has done good work for the administration."

West was squeezed out as an undersecretary of the interior by Secretary Ickes. Previously, he had served as President Roosevelt's liaison with congress.

Donahey said that though he had discussed the Ohio political situation with the president yesterday, he had nothing to disclose regarding conclusions reached. The senator frequently has reiterated he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1940, when his term expires.

Bronze Tablet, Trees To Stand as Davey Memorial

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Employes of Governor Martin L. Davey received permission from Cal G. Wahl, director of public works, today to establish a permanent memorial to the governor on the Ohio state house grounds.

The request to plant two large elm trees and to place a small monument with a bronze tablet in honor of Governor Davey was made by D. Q. Grove, field supervisor of the Davey Tree Expert Co., of which the governor is president and general manager.

Grove said he represented 1000 Davey employes.

The elm trees, about 40 or 50 feet high, probably will be placed on either side of the McKinley monument at the west, or front entrance to the state house grounds. The Davey monument will be placed nearby.

There is no other monument to an Ohio governor on the state house grounds.

MIDGET, 60, DIES

46-Inch Evangelist Mourned by Sister Three Inches Taller.

OAK BLUFFS, Mass.—(INS)—Death today had claimed Sarah Adams, 46-inch midget, who left stage fame behind to become an evangelist. She died in her cottage on the tabernacle camp grounds on Martha's Vineyard island.

She was mourned by her sister, Lucy, 49 inches tall, who had toured stage and Chautauqua circuits with Sarah. Sarah was 60 years old.

SAVED BY CABLE

Doctor Falls Down 15-Story Elevator Shaft in N. Y.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Desperately battling for life after a 15-story elevator shaft plunge at the Hotel Piccadilly, Dr. Constantine Konstan, 28-year-old West Virginian, was reported improving today at Roosevelt hospital. The young doctor, walking into an open elevateor shaft, saved himself from death by sliding down the cable.

SPURNED $6,000

Anna Hahn Rejected Offer to Tell 'True Life Story.'

CINCINNATI—(INS)—An offer of $6,000 to tell the "true" story of her relations with several aged men was rejected by Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderess who was electrocuted in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary, it was learned today.

The offer was purportedly made to Mrs. Hahn when she was incarcerated in the Hamilton county jail. A Cincinnati business man, interested in the future of Oscar, Mrs. Hahn's 12-year-old son, made the proposal, it was learned.

Meanwhile, Attorney Joseph Hoodin kept secret the contents of four letters left by Mrs. Hahn which he opened yesterday. Whether or not the letters contained a confession or had been told, was a debatable point.

Two Ill as First Tularemia Cases Are Reported In County

With two cases of tularemia reported in Richland county today and three others under suspicion, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, renewed his warning to hunters to beware of the disease which has claimed at least six lives in the state this fall.

The victims reported to the health department by their physicians are Ford Banks, 38, of 656 Scholl road, and Walter Wareham of Butler.

The commissioner said that a diagnosis made on clinical findings and blood tests had definitely established that the disease had been contracted in both cases through the handling of wild rabbits.

Diagnosis of three other cases under observation in the county rests on the return of blood specimens from Columbus.

Dr. Rehder said that while only three cases of tularemia or "rabbit fever" had been reported in the county in the past 10 years, the prevalence of the disease this year had already caused the death of three persons in Cleveland, two in Youngstown, and one in Toledo.

He urged hunters, market men, cooks, housewives and others who handle rabbits to use every precaution in preparing them for cooking.

"Rubber gloves should be worn," Dr. Rehder said, "since the germs enter the body chiefly through cuts in the skin. The rabbits should be cooked thoroughly before being eaten."

SNOW IN SIGHT

Coldest Weather In 2 Weeks to Bring Flurries Tomorrow.

The coldest weather in two weeks gripped Mansfield today, and snow and more cold were forecast for Wednesday by the weatherman.

The low temperature last night was 23 degrees and the mercury stood at 29 degrees, three below freezing at noon today. It will be cloudy and slightly warmer tonight, with light snow and colder due tomorrow, the forecast said.

SOUNDS LABOR PEACE PLEA

KILLED BY TRAIN

Willard Railroader Run Over by Locomotive in Yards.

WILLARD—Charles Weggie, 54, was almost instantly killed when run over by a Baltimore and Ohio locomotive in the railroad yard here shortly after noon today. Weggie had been a switchman on the railroad since 1914.

His body was almost severed by the wheels of the engine. He was rushed to Municipal hospital, but was dead on arrival there.

The accident occurred about 12:15 p. m.

Weggie came to Willard from Scranton, Pa., and had roomed at the John Windish home.

Details of the accident were not immediately available, nor could anything be learned about his relatives.

His body was taken to the Secor funeral home.

20 GIRLS TO GET SPORTS AWARDS

Presentation Will Be Made at Senior High Assembly Tomorrow.

Twenty members of the Girls' Athletic association at Senior high school will be presented with athletic awards at an all-girl assembly at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the auditorium.

Five girls will receive the gold G. A. A. pins, the highest award, 13 will receive emblems, and two others will get honorable mention awards.

Miss Bertha Ruess, a former member of the high school faculty, now retired, will be the speaker. She will talk on "The Christmas Message."

Parents of members of the association and all girls of the school will be guests. Mary Black, association president, will preside and will welcome the visitors. The response will be given by Mrs. Roy R. Spetka, and Miss Margaret Clapsaddle, girls' athletic instructor, will make the awards.

The gold pins for earning 1,500 points or more in athletic competition will go to Theresa Hallabrin, Evelyn Johnson, Mary Black Helen Kaler and Marilyn Eckstine. G. A. A. emblems for earning 1,000 points will be awarded Geraldine Frank, Hortense Bachrach, Mary Alice Mead, Lydia Distl, Kathrine Kaiser, Helen Bellestine, Eva Warga, Mary Turner, Janet Kelly, and Katherine Schwarz.

Honorable mention awards will go to Martha Spetka and Mary Bair. Both girls will receive their gold pins before the end of the present semester.

Arrangements for the assembly are in charge of Louise Scott, Eva Warga and Merle Aberle.

FIRE STATION NEARLY READY

New Home for No. 2 Station on North Main Will Be Completed Jan. 1.

Mansfield's new No. 2 fire station, under construction on North Main street, just north of the Erie railroad, was nearing completion today.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said that workmen employed by Martin Hallibrin, general contractor, were putting the finishing touches on the one-story structure which is expected to be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1.

Plumbing and heating equipment have been installed in the new building while electrical work was finished last week. Workmen are now engaged in laying the floors and putting in the wood trim.

The new structure, financed by the issuance of $8,000 in general bonds by city council this year, replaces a 30-year-old frame structure which was deeded to the city three years ago by the Ohio Brass company.

The new building is of brick construction and will house one piece of apparatus and will have dormitory accomodations for six men.

During the past two months firemen from Company No. 2 and the pumper have been quartered at the Central station.

LISTED ON ROLL

33 Simpson Pupils Receive Scholastic Recognition.

NEW KITCHEN FASHIONS SHOW TREND TO 'HOOP SKIRT' ERA

CHICAGO—Dress fashions aren't the only ones that are dipping fondly backward for a leg-o-mutton sleeve or a hoop skirt. Fashions in kitchens are following the same trend. Housewives, voting on their favorite model kitchen—of five displayed here—revealed a nostalgia for the cheerful, busy, sociable kitchen of grandmother's day—but with drudgery eliminated, thank you.

What else does the housewife want? She wants kitchen ranges which pour no murky film on delicately colored painted surfaces. She likes storage space galore behind smoothly enameled doors. For some glassware, chinaware or bright appliances, she is partial to decorative corner shelves. Another factor which she appreciates is the cushioned furniture which provides for auxiliary seating for extra guests and slides out of sight when not in use. Then there's the trick leaf-table which lifts into position for cozy bridge or kitchen lunch parties, but looks like part of the wall when its services are not needed.

So festive has the modern kitchen become that both hostess and guests want to stay in it—in much the same fashion as they gathered around the fragrant table or stove during grandmother's day.

Modern housewives also like bright colors, but on areas that may be changed easily when desired. A vermilion edge on corner shelves may be re-enameled cherry or black just for variety. The chartreuse tops of pale green table and stools may be smoothly re-painted white, then a delicate pink or blue. Result, a new effect. One set of floor-to-ceiling open shelves, set against an ivory wall, has been successively re-painted peach, white, pastel green, cherry. Curtains and towels are changed to match and a new ensemble results.

The "all white" laboratory kitchen has had its day. The modern housewife realizes that the more frequent the changes of color, the more hygienic the kitchen, for germs are quickly routed by fresh paint and enamel.

Among the kitchens displayed here was the "Penthouse" which has a night-sky-blue floor with the the baseboard painted the same tone. The lower walls are enameled delphinium blue and the upper walls a paler tint. Woodwork is white—as are the ceiling and curtains. For contrast, shelves are enameled terra cotta red to match the tops of chromium stools and tables.

DOMESTIC PERILLA OIL

Experiments are under way in about twenty separate locations in the southern United States, to determine whether perilla oil—used in paint manufacture—may be successfully produced in this country. The fact has already been established that the perilla plant matures well in the south and in California, but its culture depends mainly on difficult problems of harvesting. The ripening of the seed extends over a long period and the growth is rather tall.

HOME BUYERS URGED TO STUDY SAFETY FACTORS

Zoning, Restrictive Covenants Offer Protection to Those in Market for Houses.

Families embarking upon home ownership should acquaint themselves with all the factors that might affect their investment over a period of years, according to Seward H. Mott, chief of the land planning section of the Federal Housing administration. Regardless of the care and attention that is given to the maintenance of the property itself, the character of the neighborhood in which the dwelling is situated will bear heavily in an appraisal of the property at any given itme.

The intrusion of an automobile repair shop or the keeping of livestock in an otherwise desirable neighborhood has been known to depreciate surrounding properties by many thousands of dollars. The scores of blighted residential blocks in almost every community are effective object lessons and should constantly remind every prospective owner of the dangers inherent in unprotected districts.

"The protective measures that should be carefully investigated are zoning and restrictive covenants," said Mott. "Both lend permanence to neighborhood attractiveness and stabilize property investments. Through their intelligent application many of the heartaches resulting from the untimely depreciation of property values can be forestalled.

"When limitations upon land use are imposed by the community, they are done by zoning under its constituted authority for the health, safety, and general welfare of all residents. The types of structures that may be erected, regulations limiting their heights and areas, and other restrictions are imposed over the entire community by city ordinance.

"Through the use of restrictive covenants, on the other hand, regulations governing the development of residential properties within fairly small areas are imposed by individuals. They are the product of a legal agreement between the seller and the purchaser of a dwelling site."

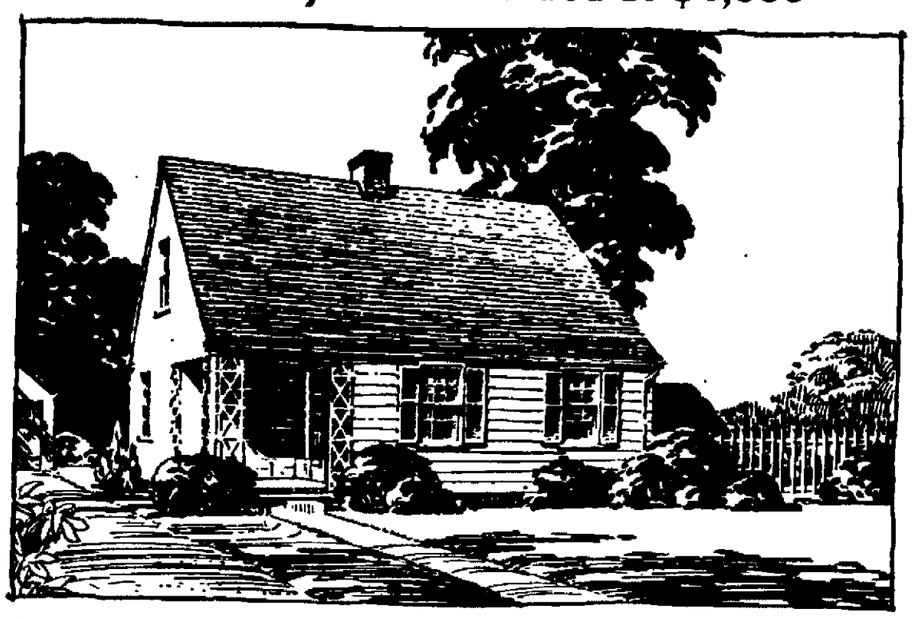
Two-Story Home Valued at $4,000



This complete small house is situated in East Hartford, Conn. It was valued at $4.000 and financed by means of a $3,200 mortgage insured by the Federal Housing administration. The good-sized living room with an open fireplace also serves as a dining room. The upper floor has been developed for living purposes and accomodates two bedrooms. These rooms have direct and private access to the bathroom on the first floor.

Faulty Window Sashes Usually Easy to Repair

A window sash may stick because of hardened paint or dampness. In the case of excessive moisture, the wood in the sash and its frame swells, and this swelling causes the ash to bind. Trouble usually appears when the wood dries. Before any correction work is undertaken, it is advisable to see if a thorough coating with beeswax will relieve the friction.

A broken sash-weight cord will allow the sash to fall if it is raised and not supported. A cord which has stretched will not carry the sash to the top. In the case of the upper sash, it must be forced up for the remaining distance and locked to make it stay closed.

The property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing administration provides funds for repair of this type. The applicant applies to a financial institution. The Federal Housing administration does not lend the money but insures the lending institution against loss.

CHINESE STRIVE TO SAVE YOUTH IN WAR'S WAKE

Children 'Adopted' for Rest of Conflict and Camps Give Them Training.

(By United Press)

HANKOW—"Here's a receipt for your son. Don't worry, we'll take him to a very safe place where there is no bombing. He will be fed well, we'll teach him a trade. And when the war is over you present this receipt and you'll have him back."

Thus hundreds, even thousands, of Chinese boys and girls become "temporary orphans" for the duration of the war, to be cared for and fed by nation-wide organizations instead of left as a burden on already starving parents

For the same war that makes tens of thousands of Chinese children homeless and robs them of whatever start in life they would have had in peace, paradoxically is providing many with better care and more favorable conditions than they normally would have had. The majority of the children left destitute by the war are the children of the poor.

Receive Expert Supervision.

Organizations have sprung up to collect these children from city and hamlet, and to send them in groups to new country homes in the interior, where they will receive expert attention. Not only this, but they will partake in the construction of the New China in hitherto unexploited territory.

The poor children of China have no lack of famous guardians The Wartime Child Welfare association has Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek as chairman. Groups of women "New Life" workers in co-operation with the War Area Service corps, collect children from the bombed areas and cities lying within the war zones. One association has more than 10,000 children on its books.

Most of the children are not orphans in any but an economic sense. Their parents are living, but themselves penniless and homeless. They are in no position to support their children. That they should give them up to an organization which is able to look after them in safety is common sense, the parents realize.

Brought from within a 100-mile radius of Hankow, the children are fed, clothed (white blouse and blue overalls) and given a badge on which is written their name, age and group. Three photographs are taken—one for the association's file, one to be sent to the future camp or home in the interior, and one for the godparents who undertake to pay their expenses at the home.

Cost Less Than $1 Monthly.

It costs about 85 cents a month to "adopt" a child in this way. In Chungking numerous pledges for the support of war orphans have been made by the rich. The former mayor of Chungking, Li Ken-ku, set the example by offering to support 20 of them for an indefinite period. A well known banker is playing godfather to 40. There are cases where foreigners living abroad are supporting a hundred or more children. Thus far there is only one case reported in which the godparents actually adopted the child into the home.

WHAT SOUTH AMERICA MEANS TO US

Statesmen of the Americas are meeting at Lima, Peru, in a conference which may have a profound effect upon the history of the world. The meeting is the eighth Pan-American conference.

The statesmen, as they sit around their conference tables, are considering a world in which almost every nation is arming as fast as it can. They are considering a world in which three undeclared wars are raging—in China, in Spain and in Palestine.

They consider a world in which the power of mighty Britain is seriously questioned for the first time. And they consider a world in which two fascist nations are using new techniques of propaganda and threats of war to gain economic and military supremacy.

The thoughts of these statesmen probably will turn to mutual defense problems. Already the United States has spoken out. We will, we say, protect the Americas from anyone.

But how much cooperation can we expect? The answer to that question is one of the things our delegates seek to learn.

South America is important to us because we must defend the Panama canal — that great ditch which enables us to move our warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic without going 'round Cape Horn.

If an unfriendly power should ever establish naval bases in South America, the menace to the canal would be great.

We present this map today with the hope that its readers, after they study it, will be better able to understand and interpret the dispatches from the Lima conference.

MAJOR ISSUES UP FRACTIONS TO TWO POINTS

Steels, Motors and Aircrafts Among Popular Groups in Steady Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Buyers were a bit more confident in today's stock market and leading issues were given a lift of fractions to 2 points.

Steels, motors and aircrafts were among the popular groups. The trading pace, moderately lively at the opening, maintained a steady gain near the second hour.

Prominent on the forward tilt were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, Anaconda, American Smelting, Central and Sears Roebuck.

Business hopes again were seen as the principal market prop, and waning of year-end tax adjustments apparently tided sentiment.

Foreign securities markets did better and European currencies moved up in terms of the dollar.

Holders of copper shares noted that world stocks of the red metal registered a net increase last month of 20,644 tons. Production of refined copper in November, the Copper Institute disclosed, was the largest for any month this year.

A constructive implication was seen in the statement of reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve system for the week ended Dec. 7, showing a gain of $15,000,000 in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans. Loans to brokers and dealers jumped $101,000,000, due manily to participation in the treasury's latest bond offerings.

WANNA LEARN TO 'LAMBETH'?

Then Come to Christmas Ball, It'll Be Demonstrated and Taught at Yule Party.

then everyone will swing into it on the outer circle of the ballroom while Miss Speas and Glenn Schroff demonstrate in the center of the floor.

Although the dance orignated in London, it has all the earmarks of an American barn dance number, with a promenade and a "swing your partners and a do-si-do.'

Some indication of the interest that is beng shown in the Christmas ball and show may be seen in the fact that of the 28 private ringside boxes available, 26 have already been sold.

In addition to the private boxes which will seat 250 persons comfortably, there will be more than 500 unreserved seats available around the walls and over the promenade floor outside the dance ring, so that persons who attend the event for the show, but do not dance, may find a place to "take the weight off the feet" during the evening.

The Christmas ball and show are being sponsored by the Three Muster-Cheers this year as a means of raising funds to fill several hundred Christmas baskets for Mansfield's less fortunate families.

TESTS TO SHOW WHO FIRED GUN

Daughter Takes Blame for Shooting of Father, 33

DENVER—(INS)—Denver police officials today were to take paraffin tests of the hands of the wife and daughter of Max Wine, 33, former bootlegger, who was shot and killed in the bedroom of his north Denver home last night.

The tests will reveal whether one fired a gun.

Mary Wine, 15, the daughter, said she shot her father in the belief he was a burglar.

Mrs. Jennie Wine wife of the slain man, said he was shot as he stood beside her bed arguing with her.

JURY CLEARS 8

Marietta Panel Frees Defendants in Tar, Feathering Trial.

MARIETTA —(INS)— It took a jury one hour and twelve minutes to acquit Wesley Hasley and eight of his friends and relatives on charges of abducting and tarring and feathering Hasley's son-in-law, Joseph A. Dixon and today only one case remained in the court.

That was a charge against Floyd Pritchette, 17 which the juvenile court had not heard.

Cowboy Saga.

Merle Oberon and Gary Cooper are the bright lights of "The Cowboy and the Lady" which is the attraction now showing at the Ohio theater. Although smoother and more modern, there are the same thrills in this film which portrays the romance of an eastern society girl and a rodeo rider as in the old-fashioned rootin', tootin', shootin' cowboy pictures.

Authentic Story.

In an effort at authenticity rarely accomplished by movies, "Heart of the North," a technicolor film now showing at the Madison, sticks to the facts about the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They are shown in the uniforms which they customarily wear, and the film, though one of romance and banditry, does show clearly the type of police work performed by this organization. Dick Foran and Gloria Dickson are the stars.

The Jones Are Back.

Opening today and running through Thursday will be the Jones, Family in "Down on the Farm" and "Comet Over Broadway." The double bill is showing at the Majestic where the Jones caper through a typical experience in their family life. They go to visit at Aunt Ida's farm, and Dad Jones enters a corn husking contest among other things. Kay Francis and Ian Hunter add glitter to the second feature.

The Mad Russian.

In the one-day-only double-feature at the Park, Bert Gordon (The Mad Russian) is featured comedian in "Outside of Paradise" which stars Phil Regan and Penny Singleton. This is the story of a young orchestra leader who falls heir to part of a castle in Ireland. The second feature showing Wednesday is "Trouble at Midnight" with Noah Berry, jr. and Larry Blake.

Hill Billy and Swatter.

Hill billy singer, Smith Ballew, and baseball favorite, Lou Gehrig, are starred in the thrilling western, "Rawhide" opening tomorrow at the New Ritz. The story is that of a fight by the two stars and Evalyn Knapp as Gehrig's sister against a racketeer "protective association." Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Lionel Barrymore and Spencer Tracy are the stars of "Test Pilot," the second feature.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given, that Dorthy E. Miller, 94 Woodland Ave., Mansfield, Ohio, has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix in the estate of Jay C. Miller, deceased. Late of Mansfield, Richland county, Ohio.
Date Nov. 26, 1938.
C. J. ANDERSON,
Probate Judge of Richland County, O.
(Nov. 29, Dec. 6, 13 N-J '38)

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on November 21st, 1938, there was presented to the Board of Commissioners of the county of Richland, State of Ohio, a petition signed by one hundred forty three electors residing within the following described territory in the County of Richland, State of Ohio, to-wit:

Being the south-east quarter of section 32, Township 21, range 18, the said quarter section now being known as South Boulevards Section A and South Boulevards Section B, the former plat being recorded in Plat Book Vol. 12, page 18 of the Plat records of Richland County, Ohio, and consisting of approximately seventy-five acres, and the latter plat being recorded in Plat Book 13, page 5 of the Plat Records of Richland County, Ohio, consisting of about eighty-five acres, more or less; The plat recorded in said Vol. 13, page 5 embodying both section A and Section B of the said South Boulevards, and representing that all of said territory has been laid off in Village lots, a plat of which territory so laid off, has been acknowledged and recorded as is provided with respect to deeds.

That the territory above described does not embrace within its limits the grounds or improvements of any county or city infirmary; and praying therein that said territory may be organied into a village to be named the "Village of South Boulevards," which petition is now on file in the office of the Auditor of Richland County; and designating the undersigned to act as the agents of the petitioners, as required by law.

The said Board of Commissioners has fixed January 30th, 1939 at 10 o'clock A. M., as the time for hearing said petition at the office of the commissioners in The County Commissioners Office, in the Court House of Richland County, Mansfield, Ohio.
R. K. CLARK, Agent.
JOHN F. KRAMER, Attorney.

WHY GET YOUR LOAN HERE?

7 Reasons:—

1. We don't look up your "family tree."
2. We don't expect an A1 credit standing.
3. Liberal amounts loaned — $25 to $1000.
4. Long time to repay— 24 months or longer.
5. Step-down payments average as low as a few dollars a week.
6. Liberal reward for prompt payment.
7. Accommodating loan staff makes you feel at home and at ease throughout your loan transaction.

Anyone even though inexperienced in business matters will find a loan with us is surprisingly simple to arrange. Write, phone or visit . . .

The City Loan

INTERSTATE

REDUCES THE PAYMENTS ON ALL LOANS

At a time when the cost of almost everything else is rising, Interstate REDUCES its payments on all loans.

We continue the same liberal credit requirements with our new reduced payment terms.

Take advantage of these small payments or pay faster if you like.

Let us help you when you are in need of cash. We invite you to consult us — without obligation — whenever you have a financial problem. Come in, write or 'phone.

JANITOR QUITS CITY HALL POST

Resigns When Confronted by Charges He Let Prisoners Escape From Custody.

Confronted with charges of neglect of duty, Rev. M. L. Gordon, colored custodian at the city building, today tendered his resignation to Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist.

The charges were preferred by Nist who said that the former janitor "on numerous occasions" had absented himself from duty without permission and had, on several occasions, permitted prisoners who were in his custody doing janitor work to escape. Nist also charged that he had failed to properly perform other duties such as keeping clean the premises assigned to him.

Police department records show that at least three city jail prisoners had left his custody within the past two years.

The records showed that on March 8, 1937, one prisoner walked away while doing janitor work for Gordon, and on Jan. 3, of this year another escaped. Both were serving short sentences for intoxication.

The latest escape was on Oct. 24, when a prisoner serving a 10-day sentence for panhandling walked away while working in the building.

Gordon was appointed by former Mayor Earl A. McFarland in January, 1936, and later was approved by the civil service commission after examination.

Nist said today that he had called for certifications from the commission's eligible list of janitors from which to make a replacement.

And Was the Driver Surprised?

Imagine the surprise the owner of this automobile received when he returned from a restaurant in New York to find his auto, which he had parked but an hour before, in this condition. Another auto struck a fire hydrant in Flushing, breaking it at the base. The resultant flood undermined the street, plunging the parked automobile into this flooded hole.

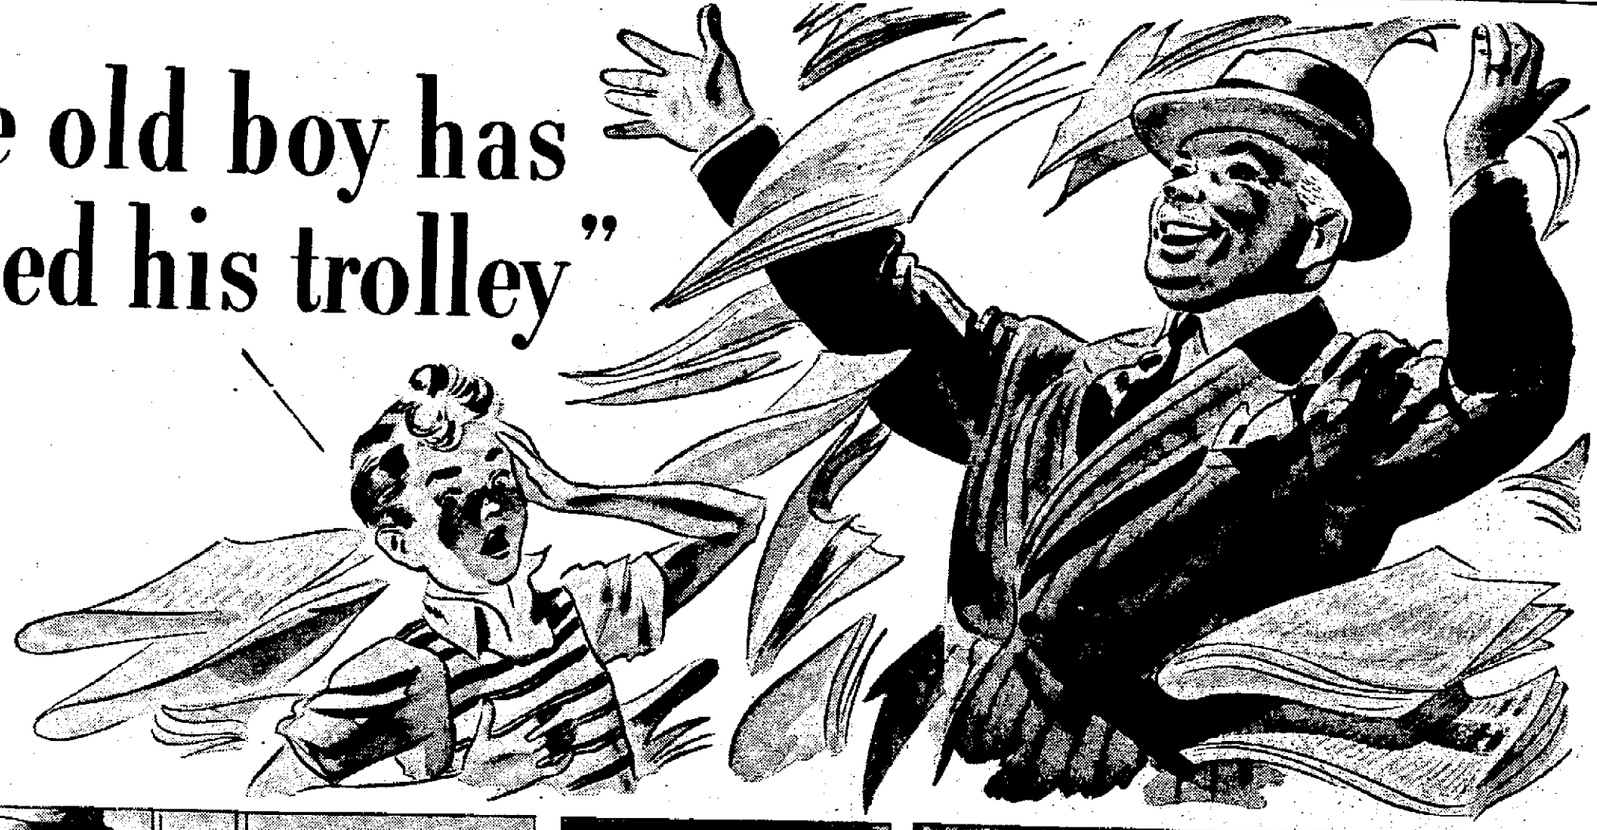
"The old boy has slipped his trolley"



● MR. SIMMONS WAS STEAMING ALONG under his own power when he finally showed up late that cold, frosty morning. He's a regular customer of mine—a swell guy—but this morning it seems he's got the pip. "Here, Red," he puffs, reaching for a newspaper and fumbling with the change. "Dang that dang car of mine. Gah! Of all mornings to be late!"

● I SCRATCH my head; then I catch on. He's had a touch of starting trouble, and right away I think of Standard Oil's Guaranteed Starting. So that night . . .

● "IF YOU DON'T mind, Mr. Simmons," I say as I slip him his evening paper, "give a glance at the SOHIO ad!" "Okay, Red," he says. "It must be good if you recommend it." "Well," I counter, "it's free when you get your regular winter change-over at Standard Oil."

● NEXT MORNING he strides up and tosses my whole bunch of papers in the air! Creeping crickets, I think, the old boy has slipped his trolley! "Red," he shouts, "you're smart! I read that SOHIO ad, and got Guaranteed Starting. They guarantee my car will start all winter long—or they pay the bill." "But my papers," I groan. "Forget 'em son," he says. "You're starting to work in my office—today!"

● I'M GETTING ALONG swell...and so will you this winter if you do as Mr. Simmons did and have your car guaranteed to start. It doesn't cost anything extra, so why not get your Guarantee Certificate today!

You need the protection of Standard Oil's Guaranteed Winter Starting. It's your assurance against cranking or pushing a stalled car—or paying garage starting bills! For Standard Oil says: "If SOHIO products ever fail to start your motor—just send us the bill!" Your guarantee is free when you bring your car up to Standard on these points—gasoline, motor oil, battery, gear oil—and keep it there. Every day, more and more motorists are enjoying the security of this guarantee made possible by SOHIO'S famous products. Get your certificate today—and Laugh at Winter Driving Worries.

ARCH SWINDLER DEAD IN PRISON

Means, Gifted Detective and Master Liar, Got $104,000 in Lindy Kidnap Hoax.

of her $104,000. A wealthy Washington, D. C., newspaper owner and society women, she was deeply touched by the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr. Means went to her with a story of being in touch with the kidnapers who were willing to surrender the baby to him for $100,000. She gave him the money plus $4,000 for expenses and he conducted a party to Aiken, S. C., for the payoff. The kidnapers, of course, didn't appear and he sent Mrs. McLean on a wild goose chase to El Paso. Then he asked her for $35,000 and she started the proceedings which ended in his conviction in May, 1933, when he was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment and fined $10,000.

Much of the Means legend came from Means himself and, as he was a pathological liar, the record of his indictments is the only trustworthy record of his career. These began in 1914 when he was charged with swindling an insurance company of $4,000. In 1917, he was handling the million-dollar estate of Mrs. Maude King, a Chicago widow. Mrs. King was killed at a moonlight target shooting party in North Carolina and he was charged with murdering her. It developed that she was planning to marry again, that this would eliminate him as her "financial advisor," but he said it was an accident and a jury in his native state believed him. Her lawyers charged later that he had looted her of a half million and a court ruled that he had forged a "second" will of her first husband, but nothing ever came of it.

Next he wrapped a piece of wood in heavy brown paper, insured it for a gold brick, expressed it to himself, then tried to collect $57,000. This failed. Meanwhile, he had been attempting for years to get himself appointed an agent of the federal department of justice and in 1921 he succeeded Two years later he provided a major scandal of the Harding administration. It developed that he and his accomplices had accepted bribes totaling $65,000, that they had opened government warehouses to bootleggers, profiting $100,000 thereby, that they had shaken down a Chicago bootlegger for $75,000, and that they had attempted to bribe four of his high superiors. For this, he served four years in Atlanta federal penitentiary.

He was released in 1928 and in 1930 published his book, "The Strange Death of President Harding" in which he inferred that Harding had not died a natural death, but had been poisoned He became a violent anti-Communist and authorities next found him in a lucrative job "protecting" a wealthy New York society woman and her daughter from "red agents." For this service, he was said to have persuaded his client to part with $100,000.

Contractor Seeks Road Job Injunction

GOES TO COURT AFTER LOSING PAVING AWARD

Claims County Commissioners Action on $68,000 Contract 'Without Foundation.'

MAY COST HELP OF PWA

County Board Goes to Columbus to Seek Approval of Its Action on Resurfacing

W. W. Purdy, Mansfield contractor, said today he would file an action against Richland county commissioners seeking an injunction to prevent them from carrying out a proposed $68,000 PWA road resurfacing project in the county.

Purdy's announcement followed the awarding late yesterday of a contract for the road project to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company on a bid that was $5,000 more than one submitted by Purdy.

May Cost PWA Aid.

The action which today was in the hands of Attys. Henkel and Gongwer, threatens to cost the county more than $30,000 in federal funds for the county if the suit holds up final approval of the road project, first attempted in the county under PWA, until after the deadline, Dec. 31.

All PWA projects given tentative approval in 1938 must receive final approval by Dec. 31 to entitle the sponsoring sub-division to share in federal funds.

Purdy said he would base his suit on the contention that commissioners "made the award without foundation." Purdy had submitted a bid for $49,598 and the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company bid was $54,675.

Commissioners, who said they had been advised by PWA authorities to award the contract to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, were in Columbus today to seek PWA approval of the contract.

Object To Gravel.

Commissioners said they rejected Purdy's bid because he quoted a price on gravel for "black-top" resurfacing material while they preferred limestone because of its durability.

They said Purdy submitted his bid a few minutes before bids were opened last Wednesday and wrote in "gravel" on the bid sheet which listed limestone as the material desired by the county.

Since the advertisement for bids did not specify stone, Purdy said submitted his gravel bid in accordance with state highway department specifications under which the county awards its road contracts. State specifications, he said, permit the use of gravel, stone or slag in "black-top" construction.

WHAT does South America mean to us? How important a part is it in our economic life? How deep are the inroads European nations have made in their drive for South American trade?

These are vital questions of the day—made especially so by the Pan American conference now in progress in Lima, Peru.

An unusual number of important decisions will come out of this conference.

To make the background clearer, The News-Journal today presents an unusual map. It's on Page 15. It tells you facts you probably never knew about South America. About the vastness of the country, its proximity to Europe as compared to North America, its wealth, and—most interesting of all—the influence of the dictator nations of Europe among South American countries.

It is a map that tells more than thousands of words could tell. We recommend your close study of it. In fact it might not be a bad idea to save the map, and refer to it each time you read a story about the Pan American conference. It will make scores of things clearer. And, of course, The News-Journal will bring you the best possible coverage of the conference itself, through its three great wire services—Associated Press, United Press and International News Service.

More Stars to Face U. S. Smuggling Quiz

Comedian George Burns Indicted; Jack Benny, Hepburn Testify.

NEW YORK — The United States Attorney's office disclosed today that a federal grand jury was still taking evidence of purported smuggling by movie stars, and that others in addition to the comedian George Burns might be indicted.

Katherine Hepburn, Jack Benny, Jack Pearl and Wallace Ford; Ralph Hitz, hotel operator and Joseph Moskowitz, 20th Century Fox films executive, have appeared before the grand jury. Presumably they were questioned about their knowledge of Albert N. Chaperau, principal defendant in the case, who allegedly smuggled in jewelry and finery from Paris and disposed of them at bargain prices to a select clientele.

Burns, admittedly, was one of these. He pleaded guilty yesterday to nine counts contained in two indictments. He had been charged with buying from Chaperau two diamond-studded bracelets and a ring worth $4,885. He bought them for Grace Allen, his wife and partner in the celebrated team of Burns and Allen.

Burns was released in custody of his attorney, Col. William J. Donovan. He will return next week reportedly as a government witness, at the trial of Chaperau and Mrs. Edgar J. Lauer, wife of a New York supreme court justice who also is charged with having accepted smuggled goods.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingston . . . In Smuggling Case?

Although he is liable to a possible maximum sentence of 18 years imprisonment and a $45,000 fine, the charges against Burns are technically misdemeanors, rather than felonies, and it was assumed that his sentence would be light, especially if he provided government evidence.

COUNTY RELIEF LOAD HITS NEW LOW FOR YEAR

Gains in Private Employment Also Cut Number on WPA; Relief Costs Go Up.

A marked increase in private employment reduced the number of Richland county families on relief to a new low for the year during November and also trimmed the WPA rolls, reports showed today.

Direct relief costs, however, in Mansfield, Shelby and 11 participating townships were $2,200 higher than in October, due largely to fuel bills caused by cold weather, Relief Director J. Verne Finney said.

The amount spent by the county's relief agencies for direct relief was $10,931.28 or $2,284.60 more than the October expenditures. The case load, Finney reported dropped from 877 cases in October to 838 in November.

City Case Load Drops.

The major portion of the decrease in the case load was shown in Mansfield where 553 families were provided with food, clothing and shelter at the cost of $7,268 as compared with the 627 families which were cared for at a cost of $6,143 during the previous month.

Finney's report showed that the county now has 1,145 on WPA, a decrease of 151 persons from the first of September when 1,296 were on the rolls, the peak figure in Richland county in the past three years.

He said the relief office was still making new assignments but that the Columbus office of WPA was not certifying them for employment because of the number of employes that private industry has absorbed.

Besides direct relief costs, Finney listed administrative expenditures of $1,306 for salaries and supplies, which figured 13.23 per cent or nearly 2 per cent below the maximum amount allowed for administration by the state.

The report showed non-adminis-

TALK TONIGHT TO DISCLOSE FUTURE AIMS

German Designs on Memel to Form Major Point in Plan on Foreign Affairs.

HITLER SENDS ENVOY

Correspondents, Ministers in British Cabinet, Leading Ambassadors to Attend.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A new 30-day whirlwind appeasement drive to settle Europe's outstanding differences took shape today, with Prime Minister Chamberlain in a key role and the possibility of German designs upon Lithuanian Memel one major problem.

His speech (at 4:40 p. m. EST) before the Foreign Press association tonight held attention of the diplomatic world which expected a complete outline of British foreign policy and an indication what the premier intended doing from today until Jan. 14 when he ends a visit to Premier Mussolini in Rome.

Impressive Guest List.

The importance of the speech, on the association's 50th anniversary, was indicated by the guest list which included most of the British cabinet ministers, leading ambassadors and ministers, and 150 foreign correspondents representing 35 countries.

Chancellor Hitler sent Gotfried Aschmann, head of the German foreign office department, as a representative. The ambassadors included those from Belgium, Brazil, France, Germany, Italy, Poland and Soviet Russia.

Chamberlain was expected to enlarge upon the government's attitude toward Memel and may discuss the British position toward military assistance for France, political-economic agreement with Germany, and political understanding with Italy.

Uneasiness was displayed over Chamberlain's reference to military assistance for France, and there were many who urged clarification of his assertion Britain had no pact or treaty specifically requiring her to aid France against Italy.

The assertion answered questions relating to the Italian propaganda campaign for French territory.

Sent to London.

The opening wedge in settlement of immediate major differences with Germany likely will be

Bronze Tablet, Trees To Stand as Davey Memorial

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Employes of Governor Martin L. Davey received permission from Cal G. Wahl, director of public works, today to establish a permanent memorial to the governor on the Ohio state house grounds.

The request to plant two large elm trees and to place a small monument with a bronze tablet in honor of Governor Davey was made by D. Q. Grove, field supervisor of the Davey Tree Expert Co., of which the governor is president and general manager.

Grove said he represented 1000 Davey employes.

The elm trees, about 40 or 50 feet high, probably will be placed on either side of the McKinley monument at the west, or front entrance to the state house grounds. The Davey monument will be placed nearby.

There is no other monument to an Ohio governor on the state house grounds.

MIDGET, 60, DIES

46-Inch Evangelist Mourned by Sister Three Inches Taller.

OAK BLUFFS, Mass.—(INS)—Death today had claimed Sarah Adams, 46-inch midget, who left stage fame behind to become an evangelist. She died in her cottage on the tabernacle camp grounds on Martha's Vineyard island.

She was mourned by her sister, Lucy, 49 inches tall, who had toured stage and Chautauqua circuits with Sarah. Sarah was 60 years old.

Wanna Learn 'Lambeth?' Then Come to Yule Ball

Popular Dance to Be Demonstrated by Chorus at Show—Instructor to Show Guests How.

Everybody's doin' it!

What? Why, the Lambeth Walk. News dispatches today tell of Alfred M. Landon, a delegate to the Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru, being taught the Lambeth Walk at a night club; it's a favorite dance of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and the younger Roosevelts; Elsa Maxwell, international hostess, likes its galloping rhythm; it's being taught at private parties in Mansfield, not only in the "kids groups" but in the more sedate groups.

And it's "in the cards" for the Christmas ball Dec. 19 at the Coliseum. Everybody's going to have an opportunity to learn the simple steps of the most popular dance in America and England.

First it's going to be danced by the chorus from the Marty Hogan dance studio during the midnight show, with eight young women stepping off the dance, first as a ballroom dance and then as a tap.

Swing It, Sister!

And after the show, Miss Marguerite Speas, director of the Speas dance school, will line guests at the ball up on the floor and show 'em how it's done. And

PLUGS FOR WEST

Donahey Says Ex-Congressman Deserving of Good Job.

WASHINGTON —(INS)—Senator Vic Donahey (D) of Ohio, today urged the appointment of Charles West, former Ohio congressman "to a responsible position in the Roosevelt administration."

While Donahey did not specify the position he thought West should fill, he insisted it should be "a good position, because he has done good work for the administration."

West was squeezed out as an undersecretary of the interior by Secretary Ickes. Previously, he had served as President Roosevelt's liaison with congress.

Donahey said that though he had discussed the Ohio political situation with the president yesterday, he had nothing to disclose regarding conclusions reached. The senator frequently has reiterated he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1940, when his term expires.

SAVED BY CABLE

Doctor Falls Down 15-Story Elevator Shaft in N. Y.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Desperately battling for life after a 15-story elevator shaft plunge at the Hotel Piccadilly, Dr. Constantine Konstan, 28-year-old West Virginian, was reported improving today at Roosevelt hospital. The young doctor, walking into an open elevateor shaft, saved himself from death by sliding down the cable.

EDEN CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

Former British Secretary to 'Learn Something' on U. S. Foreign Affairs Views.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Debonair Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, came down from New York today with the avowed intenieion of "learning something of the American outlook on foreign affairs."

In his whirlwind two-day visit to the capital, Eden was expected to confine his talks with federal officials—beginning with a White House call—to a broad review of world problems.

The unofficial aspect of his visit was emphasized here, although it had the British cabinet's approval. No state welcome was arranged for his arrival, and none of the functions on his schedule are official gatherings. Appointments with President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of State Welles, and others were obtained as a member of the British House of Commons rather than a former cabinet official.

It was generally agreed, however, that this fact should facilitate rather than handicap a frank exchange of views such as he is seeking.

Eden's White House call today was his first opportunity to confer with President Roosevelt, for he never has visited the United States before. The conference gave the president a chance to get a first hand account of the English viewpoint, which will be developed further when Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy arrives from London later this month.

SPURNED $6,000

Anna Hahn Rejected Offer to Tell 'True Life Story.'

CINCINNATI—(INS)—An offer of $6,000 to tell the "true" story of her relations with several aged men was rejected by Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderess who was electrocuted in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary, it was learned today.

The offer was purportedly made to Mrs. Hahn when she was incarcerated in the Hamilton county jail. A Cincinnati business man, interested in the future of Oscar, Mrs. Hahn's 12-year-old son, made the proposal, it was learned.

Meanwhile, Attorney Joseph Hoodin kept secret the contents of four letters left by Mrs. Hahn which he opened yesterday. Whether or not the letters contained a confession or had been told, was a debatable point.

Two Ill as First Tularemia Cases Are Reported In County

With two cases of tularemia reported in Richland county today and three others under suspicion, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, renewed his warning to hunters to beware of the disease which has claimed at least six lives in the state this fall.

The victims reported to the health department by their physicians are Ford Banks, 38, of 656 Scholl road, and Walter Wareham of Butler.

The commissioner said that a diagnosis made on clinical findings and blood tests had definitely established that the disease had been contracted in both cases through the handling of wild rabbits.

Diagnosis of three other cases under observation in the county rests on the return of blood specimens from Columbus.

Dr. Rehder said that while only three cases of tularemia or "rabbit fever" had been reported in the county in the past 10 years, the prevalence of the disease this year had already caused the death of three persons in Cleveland, two in Youngstown, and one in Toledo.

He urged hunters, market men, cooks, housewives and others who handle rabbits to use every precaution in preparing them for cooking.

"Rubber gloves should be worn," Dr. Rehder said, "since the germs enter the body chiefly through cuts in the skin. The rabbits should be cooked thoroughly before being eaten."

SNOW IN SIGHT

Coldest Weather In 2 Weeks to Bring Flurries Tomorrow.

The coldest weather in two weeks gripped Mansfield today, and snow and more cold were forecast for Wednesday by the weatherman.

The low temperature last night was 23 degrees and the mercury stood at 29 degrees, three below freezing at noon today. It will be cloudy and slightly warmer tonight, with light snow and colder due tomorrow, the forecast said.

GRANVILLE, O.—(U.P.)—Desire for a reconciliation between the American Federation of Labor and the congress of industrial organization was expressed here yesterday in an address at Denison university by John Owens, state CIO chieftain and president of the United Mine Workers in Ohio.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Willard Railroader Run Over by Locomotive in Yards.

WILLARD—Charles Weggie, 54, was almost instantly killed when run over by a Baltimore and Ohio locomotive in the railroad yard here shortly after noon today. Weggie had been a switchman on the railroad since 1914.

His body was almost severed by the wheels of the engine. He was rushed to Municipal hospital, but was dead on arrival there.

The accident occurred about 12:15 p. m.

Weggie came to Willard from Scranton, Pa., and had roomed at the John Windish home.

Details of the accident were not immediately available, nor could anything be learned about his relatives.

His body was taken to the Secor funeral home.

PREMIUMS ON NEW INSURANCE TO GO UP IN '39

Life Policies Written After Jan. 1st Affected; Insurance Loan Rate Drops.

Mansfield life insurance policy holders are receiving notices from insurance companies that premium payments on policies written after Jan. 1 will be higher, while the interest rates on policy loans will be reduced.

The premium increase and insurance loan rate decrease will affect only policies written after the first of the year.

Most of the nation's companies are expected to observe the changes, and revisions are already being written into contracts.

In some cases the increase in premiums will boost the insurance cost as much as 10 to 20 per cent, insurance men said. The increase, they added, is necessary to give the same returns on new policies in 1939 as at present.

The reduction in the interest rates on loans will be the result of a new law in New York state which reduces to 5 per cent from 6 per cent the rate which insurance companies may charge for policy loans.

Widespread Influence.

Since many of the larger companies are incorporated in New York state and companies cannot charge different rates in different states, the influence of the law is expected to be widespread.

Other revisions announced by some companies include a reduction of guaranteed interest rates to beneficiaries, slower accumulations of dividends left with companies, and an increase in premium on endowment annuity policies.

It is estimated that one-third of all policyholders borrow on their insurance, and the total loans were placed at three billion dollars. On that basis, the new 5 per cent rate will cut receipts on loans by $50,000,000.

Among the factors which companies listed as responsible for the increase in cost of policies were a shrinkage in returns on policy loans, difficulty in finding attractive capital markets, and the small amount of new financing being done.

CHAPTER 21

In them, many a time, he had found surcease from mental distraction. In them, he knew, waited the sagest advice and comfort of all the ages. But he was in no mood for them now. He felt, instead, that he wanted action rather than advice, and he had nowhere to turn, nothing to do in the still darkness of early morning.

At 2 a. m. he, was, therefore, writing poetry.

Moreover, it was beautiful poetry, if somewhat abstract. He had written such on occasions before. He knew its power. He knew the tremendous influence of its creation, knew that any creative endeavor is likely to be potent spiritual dosage. He never published his poetry, rarely even showed it to anyone because mathematicians theoretically "deal only in figures." But that didn't matter. He got its worth. His rather cloistered mind could appreciate and enjoy its beauty.

At 3 a. m. he was still writing poetry, deep and vibrant.

Toward 4 a. m. hetired of it. He sighed heavily then, wished to himself that he was not such an utterly lonely man, and slowly went to bed. The south Texas air, heralding dawn, was gentle and cool and very peaceful, so that he slept now, instantly and well.

A good sleep and a good meal are two of the greatest miracle workers known to mankind.

Thornton Holgate slept until 11:30 that Sunday. He did not regret missing church, for once. He got up and bathed and felt very refreshed, then ate a hearty lunch in the Rice Commons, read The Chronicle and The Post, and saw it was a lovely Sunday afternoon. After that he felt a little ashamed of his actions the night before; it occurred to him that he had acted almost like a freshman; he, a mature man.

After all, it had been a Saturday night, a dance night. And Peaches Pomeroy was five or six years younger than he, young enough to be a little bit careless. She had been drunk, apparently; but then, other people drank. In fact, some people seemed to get drunk often and still retain a semblance of respectability. Dr. Holgate felt that Peaches was perhaps just in the wrong crowd, under a bad influence.

With that thought he began to chide himself.

"If I had been more attentive, had sought her earlier and offered her wholesome entertainment, she would not have succumbed to unworthy companionships," he told himself. He did not realize that he was just another young man in love, trying to rationalize his lady's irrational actions. Many another lover has thus unwittingly tried to deceive himself.

He saw a group of faculty men walking toward the Rice tennis courts, some in tennis dress, others obviously going just as spectators.

"Join us, Holgate?" one of them invited. "Beautiful afternoon."

"Thank you, I will," he answered. Companionship was welcome now.

Some of these were older men, but one or two were nearer his own age, junior instructors or fellows. Some he knew had been at the freshman dance

"Mathematics all week, dance all Saturday night, sleep all day Sunday, eh, Holgate?" one of them kidded him a little. "I saw you there last night, but didn't get a chance to speak. Wanted you to meet my wife, too."

"So sorry. Did you both enjoy yourselves?"

"Well, yes. I had some duties, and so didn't dance very much, really. Part of the chaperonage fell to me, you know."

Thornton hadn't known, but he nodded. "Very orderly assembly," he ventured.

"Most of the time. Some messy clean-up work toward the end. Always a handful that have to be watched."

"Doubtless," agreed Thornton. "Was it, er—disagreeable?"

"No. Routine. Same old offenders, mostly, as last year. Drinking. Necking."

"Ah—necking?"

"Yep. Both go together. Some young people come to a college with a moral sense, some are born without one and never acquire it. I don't know why. You'd think decency would dawn on them some day. But the word doesn't exist for such as Bane and Templeton and McGonigle and the Pomeroy girl."

"The Pom — Miss Pomeroy?" Thornton was deeply interested, of course."

"Yep. She wanted the party to continue until dawn. We found her and the three boys in a private room shaking dice. They were paying off in dollars, she with kisses. She managed to lose rather consistently, or they managed it for her. All intoxicated, of course."

"She was—kissing—the young men?" Thornton Holgate's interest could have been just professional, to a casual observer. His fellow instructor took it as such.

"Oh, yes," the spokesman went on. "You are new here, of course, so you don't remember the scrapes the Pomeroy girl has been into in past years. The implication, of course, always is that it's worse than kissing, but I tend to discount such things. Faculty folk are too prone to be dictatorial, or suspicious. One thing I like about Rice is its liberality, its assumption in most instances that the students are adults, capable of managing their individual and group affairs. The freshmen, of course, need a bit of early guidance, but as a rule the—"

Dr. Holgate was not interested in a professional discussion. He made excuse to go away, declining to play tennis.

The hurt of the previous night had come back to him. He had tried to be generous in judging Peaches Pomeroy. He had felt himself rather acutely in love with her. The pain of finding her imperfect—despite her physical appearance—was indeed stinging. It had hurt doubly to have other faculty men, unacquainted with his personal interest, add to the information he himself had gathered.

He walked from the men's tennis courts across the wide green pasture toward the bayou, the sluggish, ornamental stream that separates the dormitory area from the athletic field house and stadium. He sat on the bank of the bayou for a while and thought. Spanish moss hung in festoons from the huge trees there; all the ground growth was lush. The place naturally was beautiful and restful.

Some boys came by and saw him. Comradely fellows, they sat down near him uninvited.

"Saw you at the dance, Dr. Holgate," one of them said. "Say, it's great to have the professors mix with us that way. I always thought college professors were high and mighty, kind of." He was obviously a freshman.

"Oh, no," Dr. Holgate forced a friendly manner. "Not at all. We are—ah, human, you know. Do I appear to have horns? That is—well, we enjoy sociability with the students. You must never think of faculty members as anything but your friends. We try not to intrude on you, but we like your company."

"Say, that's all right. Dr. Holgate! Say, you—say, can I come up to your room and visit some time? My dad said I would get to rub elbows with some distinguished men at Rice. That's why I wanted to come here, partly. Say, I'd like to do that, some night, if it would be all right. I'm studying engineering. I'm in one of your classes, sir. I was telling Mrs. Davis yesterday. She knows you. Say, she likes you, too. I mean, she said you were a brilliant mathematician and all, and I think Mrs. Davis is pretty good at sizing people up. She's had—"

The garrulous young fellow did a lot more talking. But he was likeable. Open and earnest and bubbling. He and his fellows asked Dr. Holgate to go and have a malted milk with them, at the soda fountain place across from the field house. He went along. The company cheered him; freshman ebullience often is contagious to a degree.

"Want to walk on up the boulevard?" they invited, after drinks.

He didn't mind. He liked the company now. It got his mind away from Peaches Pomeroy and her actions. At least, he thought it would.

But it didn't.

He kept comparing her with the ideal of her that had formed previously in his mind. He tried to bring the two images together, to straighten them out and make one pretty one, much as modern cameras are focused to make one sharp image of two hazy ones. The matter occupied him as he walked northward with the young men.

Then all at once a car was honking behind them. It drew to a stop alongside the professor and the three freshmen boys.

"Hello, Thornton!"

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

It's Different

BECAUSE:—

Father John's medicine is not "just another cold remedy." It not only helps break up colds, but builds up the body.

Its healthful, nourishing elements aid in maintaining strength, vigor and vitality.

Its use by millions of people during 84 years is the strongest possible proof of value.

OFFICIALS MEET TOMORROW ON W. FOURTH PLAN

Mayor Arranges Session With City and County Heads on Resurfacing Proposal.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, seeking financial assistance from the state for the proposed improvement of West Fourth street, will lay his proposal before city and county officials at a meeting tomorrow afternoon at the courthouse.

Hunter said today that officials had agreed to confer with him in the county commissioners offices at 1:30 p. m. for the purpose of discussing plans for the "early improvement" of West Fourth from North Main street to Penn avenue.

He explained that an attempt will be made to work out plans for resubmitting the improvement to the state highway department in the hope of getting the state to include the proposed project in its 1939 road program.

Rejected This Year.

Former state highway director John J. Jaster early this year turned down the city's plea with the statement that the state was not prepared to make any improvements inside corporations during 1938.

Hunter said those who promised to attend the meeting were Boyd Wierman, state highway resident engineer; F. R. Hopley of Bucyrus, state counsel for the Lincoln Highway association; county commissioners, Madison township trustees, County Engineer Howard C. Sword, and the street and finance committees of city council.

Plans and estimates which have been drafted called for the removal of old car rails from North Main street to Ausdale avenue and the resurfacing of the roadway from Penn avenue to Main over the present pavement at an estimated cost of $86,000.

U. S. Too Poor to Buy Autos, Soviet Newspaper Claims

MOSCOW —(AP)— Izvestia, government newspaper, has reported an alarming shortage of automobile transportation — in the United States!

The dispatch came from Izvestia's New York correspondent who told of rumble seats overflowing with three, four and even five passengers, in the United States where two thirds of the world's automobiles are owned.

His explanation was that 40 per cent of all automobiles in the United States either are out of commission or are parked on dealers' lots waiting for buyers.

"No less than 70 per cent of all automobile riders," he reported, "fall into the over-crowded class although a fortunate few can be seen riding in almost empty automobiles."

REPORTS 3 MORE CASES OF T. B.

Diagnostic Clinic Tests Boosts Year's New Patients to 43.

The total number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered in Richland county this year reached 43 today as three more were reported at the monthly diagnostic chest clinic held at the General hospital last Friday under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron.

Dr. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said that two of the new cases were in the city and the third was in the county Of the 13 suspects examined, six were from the city, two from Shelby and five from other parts of the county.

Health department records show that of the 313 suspects examined at the diagnostic clinic since Jan. 1, 270 have shown negative tests.

Eastern railroads are finding that increasing fares doesn't bring in more money when fewer people ride.

Courts are holding that candy is a food—but children should be made to understand that it isn't the only one.

Women seem to have been misunderstood. "They don't originate gossip," says Elsa Maxwell. "They merely repeat what they hear from men."

Cradled In Stone, Defended By Steel.

THE common interests and similarity of purposes of democracies were strongly presented by Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary of Great Britain, in his address to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City.

Some of the statements in his much discussed address are worth remembering. Here are a few of them:

"It would be the greatest irony in human history if mankind were to allow all progress to be stifled by the setting up of a new form of idolatry, the worship of the state, to which all men must bow down, and to which they must sacrifice their freedom of faith, of speech, of worship."

"Man was not, in our view, made for the state The state was made for man. The art of government consists in striking a just balance between the claims of the individual and those of the state.

"I am convinced that the British people today are just the same people as they have been in the greatest moments of their history; that they have the same beliefs, the same conceptions of life and society."

"Democracy must have the strength of the best tempered steel, not rigid but supple. It must have the strength of the highest form of discipline—self-discipline. It must have the courage to recognize mistakes and injustices, as well as to stand firm for what is right and just."

"In our conception, a modern democratic state must be based upon racial and religious toleration. Each citizen must enjoy individual liberty, all must be equal before the law. The rights of minorities and majorities alike must be honored and respected. These are the beliefs of our English people still, and they will hold to them."

"We know that we are destined, in our land and in our generation, to live in a period of emergency of which no one can see the end. If throughout that testing time, however long or short it may be, we hold fast to our faith, cradle it in stone and set steel to defend it; we can yet hand on our inheritance of freedom intact to the generations that are to come."

Americans, too, cannot escape a testing time. We, like our British friends, must hold fast to our faith, cradle it in stone and set steel to defend it."

While There's Time to Think.

AUTOMOBILE fatalities have become so common in recent years that they are given little thought—unless they strike very close home.

If there is to be a reduction, however, of such tragedies as that of last Saturday night, in which a Mansfield girl lost her life, there must be frank consideration of circumstances responsible for occurrences of that kind, and greater determination on the part of young people that they will drive carefully and will not ride in a car with a reckless or incompetent driver.

It should not be forgotten that a large percentage of traffic accidents involve youthful drivers, and that inclination to disregard danger is more likely to be found among young people than in the older group of drivers.

The implicit confidence of young drivers that nothing can happen to them, and the consequent chances they take in speeding, passing other cars and dividing attention while driving, doubtless accounts for many of the catastrophes which result in death, serious injury and damage to cars.

If there is need for another organization in behalf of highway safety it would seem to be one for youthful motorists, pledged to observe habits of careful driving at all times; to conform to traffic regulations; to appreciate the value of human life, and to co-operate with other agencies designed to increase highway safety.

Too much time, effort and loving care goes into rearing a child from infancy to young manhood or womanhood to permit life to be snuffed out by avoidable automobile accidents without an earnest plea for more careful driving.

To Pen for Chicken Stealing.

PENITENTIARY sentences of from one to fifteen years, imposed in common pleas court on two confessed chicken thieves, may have a deterrent effect on some other marauders who have been stealing from farmers in this vicinity and throughout the county.

The fact that it is difficult to provide police protection in rural districts has encouraged an idea that night raids on farm property, with theft of poultry or other live stock can be carried through without likelihood of detection.

It should also be understood, as was evidenced in this instance, that severe punishment will be meted out in all instances where the culprits are apprehended.

Advantage In Moderation.

YES, we do get stirred up in this country about parties, issues and leaders. The tides of political argument may swish back and forth more fiercely than they used to. But we're pretty calm in comparison with other nations.

"It is true," observes the New York Times, "that we have on one side our Dieses and Hagues to whom every liberal thought seems subversive and communistic, and on the other a large group of those who are quick to denounce every disagreement with their latest ideas as one more evidence of Fascism. Such extremists, however unwittingly, are doing everything in their power to undermine the democratic institutions which they profess to love. For fury is the luxury of dictatorship.

"The life of democracy rests on moderation and tolerance. It is only where these exist that liberty of thought and word and act can long be permitted. Fortunately the great mass of the American people still seem to believe in them."

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Members of congress who like to get their teeth into resounding phrase like "downtrodden farmer" or "equality of opportunity" are taking an awful beating in the early days of the monopoly investigation.

They brought it upon themselves, for they invited economists to put the bedrock under the inquiry and the economists set about doing it in a way that only economists can devise. For four solid hours Isador Lubin, commissioner of statistics in the labor department, pinned congressional and departmental members of the committee to their seats with a presentation of statistics the sum total of which ran far beyond billions.

Lubin is no fan dancer when it comes to holding an audience and in 20 minutes he had emptied a fourth of the seates in the once crowded senate caucus room. Two-thirds of the spectators had had enough by lunch time.

But the members of congress could not walk out on their own hearing, especially since they had bally-hooed it to the skies They had to sit while Lubin told them, among other things, that based on 1929 national income the country had lost $133,000,000,000 during the depression, or, if figured another way, the loss was $225,000,000,000.

Lubin Let's 'Em Have It.

ALL IN ALL it was a field day for figures and Lubin was in there pitching. He was born with a statistic in his mouth and probably as a boy was one of those forever asking you to take a number, add four, multiply it by six and extract the square root and the answer is 11.

Without pausing to draw breath he recited that salaries and wages lost in the depression amounted to $119,354,000,000, man-years of labor lost ran to 43,435,000 while coupon clippers lost $19,800,000,000 in dividends. Gross farm losses added up to $38,500,000,000

Strangely enough the production of shoes didn't slip much, even in the tough years, which indicates the days of the barefoot boy are about gone. In 1936 and 1937 more than 400,000,000 pairs were produced each year, far greater even than 1929.

By this time several committee members were more than bored while others tried to cover up by asking questions. A member of congress can't yawn in public with any safety whatever because sure as shootin' a photographer will snap him with his mouth stretched to ball-swallowing proportions.

Too Much to Handle.

IT IS increasingly evident that neither members of the committee nor the general public had fully understood the magnitude of the investigation until the economists began staking out the foundation. If finished as outlined it will take 10 months to two years of more or less continuous hearings.

Already it is widely speculated that ultimately the thing will narrow down to a battle of economists, each seeking to impose his pet theory upon the committee when it comes to writing legislation. In that event the economist who wins the inside track with the committee will design the legislation, regardless of stacks of tables, charts and horseback opinions.

Cause of Strike Failure In France

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The failure of the general strike called in France recently against the Daladier government isn't interpreted in official Washington as having been a labor defeat.

Rather, based on reports from Uncle Sam's diplomatic representatives in the Gallic republic, it is seen as having been a democratic triumph. In fact, I've heard it so spoken of by trades union leaders here in our own capital.

The idea is that Premier Daladier is given credit for being a genuine liberal. He has been given some pretty dictatorial authority. Still, France is in the midst of a nasty crisis—economic at least; maybe military. Perhaps it was necessary to give the Paris government considerable emergency power. Anyway it was legally voted by the French parliament, which, in turn, was democratically elected; it isn't a mere rubber stamp, like some so-called legislative bodies.

In two or three situations of stress even our American congress has been rather profuse in its grants of dictatorial discretions to the White House. Besides, the grants to Daladier have been only temporary in character; the latter's decrees must be legislatively indorsed before becoming permanently effective. True, a dictator's tendency is to hang on indefinitely, however temporary his creators may originally have intended his regime to be. However, there are bright hopes that Daladier will prove to be an exception.

On the opposite hand, Leon Jouhaux, the labor leader who called the general strike, is strongly suspected of having planned to establish totalitarian rule, as in Italy and Germany, with himself as boss of it.

Imitating Mussolini?

It was in just that fashion that Benito Mussolini became absolute in Italy.

It was as a workingman's champion that he started his march on Rome during the disorganized days just after the World war. Everyone considered him a radical. Well, possible he was a radical but not a liberal one.

Adolf Hitler was a workingman, too, initially.

That Jouhaux had the same notion in the back of his cranium is a matter of guesswork. Yet it's obvious that the French were afraid of him. Not only was the public cold toward his general strike program. The workingmen evidently were also—for they didn't strike in appreciable numbers.

The French government has a certain advantage in these strike crises.

The country has universal military service, with all its able bodied workers on the reserve list, subject to call at any time. When its railroad men, for instance, threaten to strike, the government summons them to the colors. Then it says, "You, as soldiers, are assigned to run the railroads." If they don't do it they're military mutineers. Ditto as to other industries.

A man can strike quite readily as a worker, yet hesitate to refuse military duty.

Jouhaux's strike was called only for 24 hours, but the dope was that that was only a beginning — that democratic government would collapse and that Jouhaux would take it over.

Setback For Totalitarians.

The completeness of the Jouhaux flop was wonderfully promising for democracy.

If France had gone totalitarian (that is to say, Fascist or Nazistic or Communistic) Britain would have been on the end of the democratic limb in Europe.

The United States wouldn't have been so near the end of the limb, but we'd have been on it.

It wasn't so much a labor-versus-capital fight in France.

It was democracy versus threatened autocracy.

Labor in this country wasn't pro-Jouhaux.

Influence of Mental Attitude.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE been reviewing in the past few weeks the nervous system and the six senses It is appropriate to go on from that subject to discuss what part of the nervous system which we call the mind can do to influence the body in sickness and in health.

Everybody must know instances of such an effect. In fact, our common speech is full of phrases which indicate such relationship—some sort of sight made a person "sick at his stomach;" some emotion "broke my heart;" the mental processes of pity "turned his bowels to water."

Mind Plays Part.

But few people realize the extent of this relationship. There is no illness in which the mind does not play a part. As a wise physician has said, "There are two things of sickness—one is the sickness itself and the other is what the patient thinks about the sickness." If you can get the patient in the proper mental attitude towards what is the matter with him, you have often won half the battle.

And much of the illness of the world is due to the patient's inability to take the proper mental attitude toward his illness. He either thinks it is more serious than it is, or else he thinks it is not as serious as it is.

We have people with all gradations of attitude. There is the woman with a little indigestion that she thinks is cancer of the stomach, which it isn't at all, but her whole life is made miserable by refusing to accept that. On the contrary, we have the man who doesn't think his diabetes is very serious and thinks it doesn't need much treatment. He goes from bad to worse, simply because he refuses to recognize the fact that he is really sick.

One of the great advantages of modern medicine is the fact that treatment of these things is undertaken deliberately and conspicuously instead of haphazardly. The old-fashioned doctor with the good bedside manner, whose very presence in the sickroom made you feel better, was unconsciously using psychotherapy and mental hygiene, but since his day those specialties have become scientific and have been put on a rational basis. Their principles are understood and they can be applied consciously for the patient's benefit.

Preventing mental ill health has become a movement with a definite objective for an increasingly large number of informed people. Mental hygiene assumes that mental health and ill health actually exist and can be understood. It assumes that the distress of a personality struggling with an environment is simply a struggle and not a matter of devils and witches, sin or orneriness, nor yet a matter of feeble intellect or feeble will. Mental hygiene further assumes, as Dr. Karl Menninger said, that mental health is attainable and our failure to attain it or retain it to some extent dependent upon our ignorance of general principles.

Have You a Worm-Hole Where Your Heart Used to Be?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEER, how this thing called Selfishness can sneak up on a fellow without his knowing it—

Begins innocently enough. 'Smatter of fact, you've got to exercise a certain amount of Selfishness if you wish to protect yourself against the Greed and ruthless Sentimentality of this half-civilized world.

"Self preservation is the first law of nature"—we're taught that as toddlers . . . warned constantly to protect our rights and possessions. Nor is there anything menacing or monstrous about such sensible foresight. It's as essential to human safety as protective coloring is to an animal.

But once let Selfishness get the bulge on you . . . once surrender yourself to its insidious comfort and convenience . . . and it passes from a PROTECTIVE DEVICE to a PROGRESSIVE DISEASE that dupes while it destroys.

You've seen it happening . . . watched it spread through a character as a malignant growth spreads through a body, devouring healthy tissue while its demoralizing victim remains complacently ignorant of the havoc under way.

Remember Lois, and what a lovely youngster she was, fifteen years ago, when she got her first job, rented her first tiny apartment. Just in from the country, fresh as spring clover . . . affectionate, enthusiastic, bubbling over with impulsive generosity. What a hit she was with the Gang!

But, of course, some people took advantage of her—they always do, with a person like that. Some of the girls borrowed her pretty new dresses . . . returned them stained with wine, covered with cigaret burns. Fellows invited themselves for dinner, ate huge hunks out of her small budget. Down at the office, she was always giving someone a hand with their work. And, of course, there was the weekly hard luck story from the Folks Back Home.

Yes, they certainly took little Lois for a ride. And most of us were glad when she began to be careful . . . thought twice before she let people use her things or did their unfinished work . . . Naturally, some of the chiselers were sore, said she'd gone high hat. But her real friends praised her, told her to look out for Exhibit A.

Good advice But presently we wondered if Lois wasn't overdoing it. For you could see the change working in her, and it wasn't pleasant. She still laughed . . . still went through the gestures of being a good fellow. But somehow she always happened to be out of the office if the Gang were taking up a collection for someone who'd had a bad break. And she had become as full of those "stop, look 'n' listen" slogans as a pup is of fleas. Was always saying, "If you don't look out for yourself, who will?"

A lot of difference in one short year! But the funny part was, Lois didn't dream she'd changed at all! She always had a perfectly good excuse for whatever she did . . . an air-tight alibi, even for the doggondest meanness. And all the while you could see she felt she was the same generous, impulsive, warm-hearted kid! Only "just a little more careful."

"CAREFULNESS" —of all the blanket alibis for cussedness that's the tops!

Today Lois is so changed her own mother wouldn't know her. She has become the world's greatest chipmunk, hoarding her emotions as fiercely as she does her pennies, dodging and scheming lest she waste a second or run a risk. Selfishness has her in its grip. It didn't happen at any certain time . . . in any certain decision. It simply grew upon her until it is the pattern of her life and has consumed every other trait. Yet she'd deny it with righteous indignation . . . and dare you to put your finger on any act that wasn't motivated by "proper precaution" and "good common sense."

THE WORLD IS FULL OF PEOPLE LIKE THAT . . . GROUCHY OLD SCROOGES WHO STOUTLY BELIEVE THEY ARE STILL WARM-HEARTED SPENDERS . . . STINGY SOUR-PUSSES WHO SINCERELY THINK THEY'RE THE SOUL OF GENEROSITY!

Are YOU one of them? Am I? Golly, I wonder! Maybe all these years—! ! Boy, 'phone for the X-ray! Perhaps I, too, have a worm-hole where my heart used to be!

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Is It a "Joe Miller"?

The expression "A Joe Miller" meaning a joke of the chestnut variety is an allusion to one Joseph (or Josias) Miller, famous British comedian of the first half of the eighteenth century.

Miller died in 1738. In 1739, a fellow actor, one John Mottley, seeking to capitalize upon Miller's reputation, gathered in all old stray and current jests, and attributing them to Joseph Miller, published a book entitled "Joe Miller's Jests."

For a long time, "Joe Miller's Jests" was the only joke book extant.

A Farmer's Diary

A Good Home.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT THEIR typical country home, on a wintry afternoon, I met a father, a mother, two grown girls, and an active boy of fourteen.

The house was brick, and had stood for over a century. The floor and walls were clean, but warped with age. The ancient chimney still served its purpose well, and all within was warm and comfortable. The house dog lay asleep on one side, with outstretched paws, and the large gray cat drowsed near by, careless of his presence.

The father was a ruddy man of middle age, clad in neat, patched overalls. His interests were his family, his farm and his livestock. He was an optimist, and looked forward to the time when he would have a fine breed of hogs and cattle, and when by skill in farming, he might raise bigger crops upon more fertile fields. His heart was in his work, and his dark eyes glowed as he pictured to me the vision of his future farm.

The two daughters, one married, the other home from college were helping their mother get the tasty country dinner. I watched faithfully, while talking with their father, the tempting array of food, which the girls were placing upon the clean white table. When all was ready, the mother came from the kitchen with a large platter of steaming, golden brown, roasted chicken.

She was a composed, capable woman in a prim, neat dress and possessed a grace and charm of manner that added a rare completeness to the family circle. I could feel the unconscious power that she possessed—not commanding, but a gentle, rare restraint that came from noble living. The entire family reflected this atmosphere. The youngest daughter gave thanks, most reverently, and cast a spell of ardent Christian faith.

"Our oldest son could not be here, today," said the mother regretfully. "He's a chemist, in the city, and they couldn't let him off. He's twenty-three, and not through college yet, but he goes to night school regularly. Our youngest girl, here, is going to be a teacher. We're hoping Bill, the youngster, will go to school, and then come back and farm."

Such rural homes as this are numerous. They leaven the cities, and are the honor of the land from which they come.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—William K. Howard, the director, was having trouble with that picture, "Frankie," which he's shooting at the Astoria studies over on Long Island.

There was a courtroom scene and Howard couldn't find an actor to handle satisfactorily the role of district attorney. Four men had tried it and failed. When a fifth did likewise, Howard gritted his teeth, shouted: "Say, what is this, anyway? Why, anybody could do that part. Look."

He stepped onto the set, and with feeling born of anger, swung into the D.A.'s lines.

Almost at the end he stopped short. "Say," he muttered, "that's not bad." Already, every one on the set was applauding.

Howard turned to the camera crew, shouted: "It's a take. Roll 'em."

And then and there Bill Howard, who has been an ace director for 20 years, became an actor for the first time in his life.

WHICH just about makes "Frankie" an all-Howard picture, because he wrote it, is producing and directing it himself, and now is acting in it.

(Aside to Howard: Here's a little tip, pal, now that you're really in pictures, and it won't cost you a cent. When Hecht and MacArthur appeared briefly in one of their pictures a lot of people thought they were becoming a little vain. But ego had nothing to do with it. Their appearance in a film enabled them to check their tailor's bill for the year against their income tax. Actors have to wear clothes, you know. P's an item the government never argues about).

ROBERT SHERWOOD, author of the show, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," explains his enthusiasm for the rail-splitter thusly: "Most small men have a Napoleon complex. Well, I'm six feet seven."

Jimmy Savo, the likeable little comedian with the baggy pants, is an ex-furniture salesman. . . . There's a suspender shop on 6th avenue which sells only suspenders. It's the only store of its kind in New York. . . . Doug Fairbanks, pere, is getting fat. His face is round as a butter ball. . . .

Here's a lesson in leg-pulling: Teddy Powell, the song writer, spied Orson Welles at a Paradise table and ambled over to say hello. "Have a cigar," he greeted, pulling one from his pocket.

"I smoke only Coronas," remarked Welles. "But this is a Corona," explained Powell.

"I said I smoked only Coronas," Welles reiterated. Whereupon Powell returned the cigar to his pocket and bought another exactly like it from the cigaret-girl. He handed it to Welles, and Welles gravely accepted it. Then Teddy struck a match.

"I never light three on a match," objected Welles, who was the only one preparing to smoke.

"You're a screwball," said the song writer, walking away.

SEEK TO GIVE PLUMBING CODE SET OF 'TEETH'

Health Board Members Study 2 Amendments; 1 Would Set Up Examining Board.

Acting on a recommendation from Dr. Roy C. Rehder city-county health commissioner, the Mansfield board of health last night took steps to revise the city plumbing code seeking to put "teeth" in the law.

The proposed changes in the two-year-old code, designed to improve the ordinance, would set up a plumbing board of examiners and extend the authority of the plumbing inspector.

After discussing the proposed amendments, the board delegated Fred Haag, city plumbing inspector, to draft the amendments and present them to the next meeting of the board for approval.

Would Extend Authority.

Glenn Bierly suggested extending the authority of the plumbing inspector to include all connections made to the city sewer system. The inspector's authority is now limited to the property line

Bierly's proposal was made, as he explained, following a meeting with city officials two weeks ago on the matter of a sewer survey, when all agreed that the elimination of improper connections into the sewer system could be stopped by extending the authority of the plumbing inspector to handle all installations.

The plumbing board of examiners was discussed to put "teeth" in the ordinance and would call for all plumbers to appear before the board to obtain their license.

The examining board was first discussed two years ago when the present code was approved but was omitted because of the plumbing code set-up, members explained.

Man Fined for Molesting Girl to Be Taken to Workhouse.

Convicted in municipal court this morning on a charge of molesting a 16-year-old high school girl, William Scott, 123 North Walnut street, unemployed steel worker, was fined $100 and costs. Unable to pay, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch ordered him committed to the Columbus workhouse until the fine and costs were worked out.

Scott was arrested on West Temple court at 10 30 p m Sunday by police, called by the girl's father who said that the defendant had followed his daughter home. The girl gave officers a description of the suspect who was picked up a few minutes later.

Scott was identified by the girl, her mother and father as the man who had followed her and made advances while she was on her way home.

Shells From U. S. Gunboat Hit Jap Plane, Nippon Told

SHANGHAI — (INS) — A report that the United States gunboat Luzon shot down a Japanese warplane in the Yangtze river off Hankow six weeks ago excited keen speculation in Shanghai's foreign circles today.

According to the report, the Luzon fired on the plane when it ignored warnings not to operate over neutral foreign vessels. Special interest was lent to the report because it came to light exactly a year and a day after the United States gunboat Panay was sent to the bottom of the Yangtze by Japanese warplanes.

(In Washington, officials of the American state and navy departments said they had received no reports indicating the Luzon or any other American gunboat had fired upon or shot down any plance since the sinking of the Panay. They stated they considered it unlikely such an incident could have occurred without being reported officially).

The French gunboat Admiral Charnel also was reported to have shot down two Japanese warplanes.

TURN JOB OVER TO CITY, COUNTY

Conservancy District Officials Officially Surrender Ditch Dredging Project.

Directors of the inoperative Mansfield Conservancy district had been authorized today to turn the task of dredging Mansfield's streams and building flood walls over to the city and county and a WPA project.

Common pleas court approval was necessary before the city and county can proceed with a project which includes dredging Touby's run, Ritter's run and Rocky Fork creek in the Mansfield area in a $131,000 federal project.

The project is already under way in rural sections of the county and work is scheduled to start soon in Mansfield.

In their application for court permission to authorize the conservancy work, directors of the conservancy district said the district has only $250 in cash and will be unable to contribute to the new project. The court order prohibits the conservancy district from spending more than its cash on hand on the project.

Set up in 1927, the conservancy district was never really active. Bonds issued to finance the proposed flood control project will be retired in 1942.

FIRST SESSION

How 3 Mothers out of 5 RELIEVE THE MISERY OF THEIR Children's Colds

"I USE VAPORUB JUST AS MY MOTHER DID, IT HAS NEVER FAILED ME"

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5

For two generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers standby for relieving the discomfort of all the family's colds. Today it is used in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

CAN BE USED FREELY... VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT... VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It acts direct through the skin like a poultice, (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath. This direct poultice-and-vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

DOUBLY-PROVED... VapoRub has been proved in daily use by two generations of mothers—further proved in one of the largest series of clinical tests ever made on colds Just treat one cold with VapoRub—see for yourself how effective it is—and we believe that you, like most mothers, will always keep it handy in your home.

Briskly massage VapoRub on the throat and chest. Also on the back. VICKS VAPORUB

It's so much Smoother!..

Miss Florence MacDonald Speaks at Joint Luncheon Session of Victorian, Round Table Clubs; Quartet Illustrates Talk.

MISS FLORENCE MacDONALD was in charge of the Christmas program at the joint meeting of the Victorian and Round Table clubs yesterday noon at the Women's club.

After the dessert luncheon, Mrs. Paul Cropper introduced Miss MacDonald, who spoke to the group about the legends, superstitions, and customs of the peoples of many foreign countries, which are observed during the Christmas season. Some of the legends signified shepherds feeding birds and animals, holly, mistletoe, breaking of bread, and the special meaning of the crib as a part of the Christmas celebration.

These legends were illustrated by Christmas songs sung by a quartet made up of Mrs. Homer Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bonar, Emerson Bletz. Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall accompanied the quartet on the piano.

Christmas selections presented by the singers were: "Shepherds on the Hill," "Angels and Shepherds," "Bagpipe Carol," "Is This the Way to Bethlehem?" "March of Kings," "The Cuckoo Carol," "The Cherry Tree Carol," "From Heavens High," "Twelve Days of Christmas," "The Pilgrims," "Shepherd's Christmas Song," "Carol of the Doves," and "The Carillon's Carol."

Mrs John W. Graham and Mrs B. L Chase presided at the luncheon table. Mrs. Lester Redding and Mrs Vernon Redding were hostesses for yesterday's meeting

Fete Bride-Elect At Social Event Monday Evening

Miss Edna Bookwalter was honored with a pre-nuptial shower by her sister, Miss Jean Bookwalter, at their home on Glessner avenue last evening. Twelve guests were present for the affair, and during the evening, the group played games and contests. Score prizes were won by the Misses Alice Bookwalter, Dorothy Stephenson, and Harriett Bookwalter.

Later in the evening a luncheon was served at a table decorated with pink and white appointments. The centerpiece was a bridal party, leaving the church. At this time the bride-elect received a corsage of roses from the hostess.

Miss Bookwalter will become the bride of Marvin Stevens at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 23 at the First Lutheran church.

ENTERTAIN TOMORROW.

Mrs. E. B. Keller and Mrs Fred Black will entertain members of the Star class of the United Brethren church Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Keller on East First street. This will be a Christmas exchange.

Name Officers Of Tent During Meeting at Hall

Celebrate Anniversary of Patriotic Group; Arrange Party.

Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40, Daughters of Union Veterans, celebrated the 53rd anniversary of the organization of the order last night at the regular business meeting and election of officers in Memorial hall.

The organization was started at Massillon 53 years ago, and in that time 120 tents have been formed in the state, and 37 states now have tents. This group of daughters is the only organization recognized by the Grand Army of the Republic.

Officers elected include Effie May Miller, president; Blanche Wolfgang, senior vice president; Henrietta Sherman, junior vice president; Allie Garrett, treasurer; Mary Alice Orewiler, chaplain, and Elizabeth Campbell, patriotic instructor. Members of the council are Mrs. Ella McHugh, Mrs. Alice Hunter and Mrs. Theodosia Watts.

Following group singing a vocal duet was presented by Phoebe Robinson and Ada McGinity. Mrs. Ella B. McHugh, president; Mrs. Berthan Droz, national senior vice president, and Mrs. Effie Miller, senior vice president, all spoke.

Instrumental music was given by Sheldon Perrine and John Wynn, following which regular business and ritualistic work were conducted. The 1938 officers presented a Bible to the organization, Mrs. Droz making the presentation speech, and Mrs McHugh accepted on behalf of the organization. After the Bible was placed on the altar a re-dedication ceremony was participated in by all members.

Relief work amounting to $366.95 during November was reported, and visits made to comrades were also reported. Final arrangements for Christmas baskets for shut-ins and Grand Army men were made It was announced that there would be a Christmas party and business meeting at the hall on Dec 26 The party will follow the meeting, and there will be no dinner.

Civil War Book Reviewed by Mrs. Alvord for Club

Group Arranges to Help With Welfare Work of Two Organizations.

Mrs. Lowell Bourns, 251 Euclid avenue, entertained members of the Monday Study club last night at her home and Miss Helen Bein served as associate hostess. The book "——and Tell of Time" by Laura Krey was reviewed by Mrs. Harrison Alvord.

In the opinion of the reviewer the book has too many pages for the amount of material contained in it. The story deals with the struggles in Texas following the Civil war. Like "Gone With The Wind" it is a first novel, and deals with the same period of historical time, but in other details it does not closely compare with Miss Mitchell's writing.

The refreshment table was decorated with a Santa Claus surrounded with pine and lighted red tapers. Mrs. Paul Weir presided. During the business meeting arrangements were made to make a cash contribution to a Mansfield welfare organization, and canned goods were collected to be given to the Three Muster-Cheers for their Christmas program.

Members will meet Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Samuel Orr and Mrs. Coleman Todd will assist. Mrs. Mabel Huston will give the book review.

HOSTESS TO GROUP.

Mrs. Von Davis has invited the girls who are employed at Neisner's store to her home on West Third street for a Christmas party tomorrow evening. Approximately 25 guests are expected to attend the affair, when card games will be the evening's diversion. Christmas favors and colors will decorate the home and luncheon table.

MEET THURSDAY.

Members of Circle One of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet Thursday at 1 p. m. with Mrs. Samuel Morgan, 25 Wise avenue.

Mrs. Renwick, Miss Booth Give Choral Music Program at Club

ONE of the most unusually and at the same time most charming programs presented this year by the Music Study club was the program last night on "Choral Music." Miss Myrtle Booth, director, presented a chorus in a number of typical selections while Mrs. Eugene Redwick, chairman spoke at the Women's Club.

Mrs. Renwick gave a paper on the "Growth and Development of Choral Music" in which she traced the background of the type of musical selections and told of some of the important leading composers, the early forms of chorals, and other interesting and enlightening facts.

Those in the chorus included Jane Foltz, Vera Smythe, Mrs. H. V. Miller, Sara Catherine Wallace, Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, Mrs. Gilbert Schneider, Mrs. John Klinger, Barbara Smythe, Albert Arnold, Paul Watts, Laurence Bergstrom, Loren Cook and John Grabler. Minnie Marks Cahall was the accompanist.

Numbers sung were "Sumer Is Icumen In" (English, 1240), "Matona, Lovely Maiden" by Lasso, 15th century; "O, What a Flood of Dazzling Light" by Palestrina; "Break Forth O Beauteous, Heavenly Light," by Bach; and "Oh, Lovely Night" from Tales of Hoffman. In conclusion the group sang carols.

The next regular meeting will be Jan 8 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel when the organization presents its guest musicale and tea The program will be given by the Ashland Musical club, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Frank and Mr and Mrs. Paul Watts will be in charge of reservations

Rehabilitation Work Basis of Program at Auxiliary Meeting

ARRANGEMENTS for the children's Christmas party to be held at the Gardner garage, Dec. 18, were disclosed yesterday at the regular monthly meeting and holiday party of the American Legion auxiliary which was held at the Legion home. The affair is for children of Legionaires and is jointly sponsored by the Legion and auxiliary.

Part of the program consisted of a radio broadcast on the rehabilitation work done by the auxiliary. Mrs. W. L. Beckley, Mrs Herman Hautzenroeder and Mrs. Robert Jones participated. The program committee included Mrs Gladys Bauman and Mrs. Carl Walker Marilyn Ackerman of the Junior Unit announced the numbers.

"Voices of The Sky" by Alex Mathews was the selection given by Mrs. Walker, vocalist, who was accompanied by Miss Louise Krause. Mary Alice Mead gave a Christmas reading, and "Pollanaise" by Chopin was played by Ann Jeannette Klinger. Christmas carols were then sung by Mary Alice Mead and Margery Hegnauer.

A specialty dance was given by Marjorie Jane Young, followed by group singing. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus appeared and presented gifts to the 100 members present.

Luncheon was served in the dining room from tables decorated with evergreens and lighted candles. Mrs. Verne Castor was the chairman. Bridge was played at six tables, and Mrs. Charles Benedict was the high score winner.

Mrs. H. D. Moorhead was in charge of the meeting, during which Mrs. Hautzenroeder reported welfare work for veterans' families. Mrs. Samuel Harkins reported the membership quota reached, and presented Mrs. Beckley, department president, with a Christmas tree ornament as a token of reaching the quota.

Announcement of the meeting of the Junior Activities unit tomorrow at 4:15 p. m. at the Legion home was made by Mrs. Mae Riggle.

Retain Officers Of Business Girls Class During 1939

Miss Ruth Heilman, who is president of the class, conducted the business meeting, when it was decided that the present class officers would hold office for the coming year. Other officers, besides Miss Heilman, are: vice president, Mrs. Carl Gabor; secretary, Mrs. Walter Grabosky, and treasurer, Miss Belle Bainter.

Chinese checkers were the diversion of the evening, with Miss Amy Kline and Miss Bainter receiving the prizes. At the conclusion of the games, refreshments were served at tables decorated with Christmas colors. The class is planning a covered-dish dinner to be held in the basement of the church on Jan. 16.

INDUCT OFFICERS IN COLORFUL CEREMONY

Ruth Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Holds Public Installation at Masonic Temple Monday Evening.

IN AN impressive ceremony, before an audience of 300, Miriam Gross was inducted into office as the worthy matron of Ruth Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple last evening. Claude M. Hunter was installed as worthy patron of the chapter for his fifth year of service.

Other officers, who were installed at the public ceremony, were: Pearl Wierman, associate matron; William Dice, associate patron; Sara Ford, secretary; Laura Brubaker, treasurer; Ruth Keefe, conductress; Ethel Rain, associate conductress; Rev. D. B. Millar, chaplain; Clara Colbow, marshal; Oliva Edwards, organist; Iva Dent, Adah; Mary Jane Bellore, Ruth; June Miles, Esther; Miriam Hoffman, Martha; Sylvia Veverka, Electa; Gertrude Kerr, warder; Stella Touby, sentinal, and Margaret Brower, singer.

Matching Costumes.

For the first time in the history of Ruth chapter, the officers were dressed alike. The women wore lace formals with short bolero jackets in roseberry, a shade of old rose, and silver slippers. These colors, rose and silver, will be carried out by the worthy matron and her officers throughout the ensuing year. The new officers carried quaint colonial bouquets, in colors which harmonized with their gowns. These were a gift from Miriam Gross, who wore a shoulder corsage of orchids for the ceremony.

The hall was decorated in the spirit of Christmas, with laurel, green and silver pine, and red tulle. Before the altar there was a small white gate, surrounded by fern, palms, and baskets of rose and white chrysanthemums.

Installing Officers.

Josephine Barnes was the installing officer for last night's ceremony, with Thelma Hartman acting as the installing marshall. Other installing officers were Thelma Hursh, presiding officer; Isa Boughton, chaplain; Ruth Domer, conductress; Helen Adams, associate conductress; Emma Shocker, organist. Ethel Henness served as the associate installing officer.

Before the installation, Bessie Spielman, the grand representative from California, was presented to the chapter, as were visiting matrons from Shelby, Ashland, and Crestline.

After the officers for 1939 had been invested with their badges by the marshal, Thelma Hartman, the installing officer, Josephine Barnes, the worthy matron, Miriam Gross, and the worthy patron, Claude M. Hunter, gave brief talks. Mayor Hunter included the history of the Eastern Stars and its founding by Dr. Robert Morris in his speech.

Lenora Horn conducted the five point ceremony and presented the five points of the star, Adah, Ruth, Esther, Martha, Electra, with small white Bibles, gifts from the worthy matron. Lenora Horn carried these Bibles in an attractive basket, which was covered with yellow and white daisies and ferns.

Names Committee.

After the presentation of many gifts, Miriam Gross, announced the committee who will serve the chapter for the coming year. These committees are: instruction, Josephine Barnes, Thelma Hartman, and Thelma Hursh; memorial, Lenora Horn, Ada Shuler, and Louisa Ruhl; reception, Hazel Zellner, Norma Miller and Claude M. Hunter, examination, Myra Culp, Nellie McIlvaine, and Claude M. Hunter; gift, Sara Ford, Laura Brubaker and William Dice; auditing, Thelma Hartman, Josephine Barnes, and William Dice.

The custodian for the year will be Walter Burrier. Pearl Wierman, Mae Karrer, and Margaret Hunt are the members of the entertainment committee. Members of the protem committee, who will take the places of the star points in the event of their absence, are Adah, Josephine Henness; Ruth, Ruth Domer; Esther, Fern Wierman; Martha, Nellie Phipps; and Electa, Helen Adams. The decoration committee for the coming year will be Mary McFadden, Julia Lantz, and Agnes Brunker.

The sewing circle committee, the group which has charge of all social events during the year, is made up of Olga Davis, Mae Hunter, Helen McFadden, Ruth Domer, Nellie Phipps, Luella Hursh, Mary Kreischer, Austa McAninch, Mary McFadden, Ruth Wiseman, Agnes Tomlin, Neva Denny, and Lois Cole.

Mansfield Club Presents Foods To Welfare Group

Canned foods were assembled last night at the home of Mrs. J. O. Hanley, 451 Davis road, when she entertained in honor of members of the Little Flower Study club at the annual Christmas party. The cans will be presented to the Three Muster-Cheers for Christmas welfare work.

Following an exchange of gifts the members played bridge. High score was held by Mrs. Frank Mahoney and Mrs. Joseph Kuebler held second.

The hostess served luncheon at a long table decorated with a centerpiece of English holly and lighted white tapers. Miss Marie Hecht will entertain the club members at her home on Dec. 9. Mrs. Thomas McDermott will give the program on the topic "New York to Montreal by Boat."

Dr. Puterbaugh Speaks at Fifth Annual Patrol Dinner Monday

THERE were 125 members and guests present last night for the fifth annual patrol boys dinner at North Lake park sponsored by the West Fifth Street School Mothers' club. Dr Milton Puterbaugh, Ashland college, gave the principal address of the evening, speaking on "Safety."

Dinner was served to the group at long tables decorated with Christmas trees, and individual favors of candy baskets. Mrs. W J. Smith, club president, introduced Glen L. Robinson, principal, who read a poem written by Miss Margaret Black for the introduction of each of the guest speakers.

Mrs. F. D. Boals, president of the P. T. A. council, spoke briefly on the patrol efficiency, and Frand Boals, organizer of the patrol, presented service badges. The club gave each of the boys a personal gift, and the organization also presented the school custodian. Clarence B. Swaidner, with a gift. Mr. Swaidner sang two selections.

Members of the patrol gave Officer Boals a gift. Robert Shoenman, patrol captail, made the presentation.

Rev. G. E Swoyer, pastor of the First English Lutheran church, also spoke, and Mr. Robinson closed the meeting with a few remarks. An informal get-together followed the dinner and speeches.

Buffet Supper Held By Social Group

There were 22 members entertained at a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. K. L. Woodman, 55 Euclid avenue, last night when Delta Theta Tau had a Christmas and kid party Mrs. Carl Adams, Miss Helen Anderson and Miss Helen Widders were the associate hostesses.

All members appeared in costumes, and a Santa Claus distributed gifts to the guests. Bridge was played and prizes went to Miss Lee Heim and Mrs Richie Bittinger.

The supper was served buffet style from a table decorated with a house centerpiece surrounded by lights, and Christmas tree decorations. The next regular meeting will be Jan. 9 with the place to be announced later.

BLACK JERSEY

PARIS —(AP)— Dining at Maxim's recently was Madame Robert Lazard, wife of the Paris banker. She wore an evening tailleur of Paquin's in black jersey with high shoulder jacket and large revers. The skirt of the dress was entirely covered with paillettes in red, green, blue and yellow, in rainbow effect. When the jacket was removed the same paillettes could be seen covering the top of the corsage.

VICTORY DINNER

ASHLAND—Plans are being made for a victory dinner for workers of the Tenth Annual Ashland Community chest drive held here recently. The dinner meeting will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at Pelat's.

At the close of the drive each year since the organization of the Chest campaign, a dinner has been given for the solicitors, board of governors and executive committee.

Yuletide Customs Subject For Talk By Guild Member

"Little Known Christmas Customs of the United States" was the topic on which Miss Ruth Culbertson spoke to members of the Rachel France guild of the First Presbyterian church when they met at the home of Mrs. E. M. Eichen, 100 Western avenue, yesterday.

Mrs. William Russell conducted the devotional part of the program, and she presented Christmas stories from the Old and New Testaments. After Miss Culbertson's talk, Miss Jan Weuthrick sang several Christmas carols. The program was concluded with a Christmas poem which was read by Mrs. I. M. Basinger.

Later in the afternoon, refreshments were served at a long table, attractively decorated with Christmas favors and colors. Mrs. Arthur Kell assisted Mrs. Eichen with yesterday's meeting. On Jan 9, the guild will meet with Mrs. R. M. McCombs at her home on Arlington avenue.

Parents Object To Fiance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For three years I've been working in the same office with a man who is eight years older than I am. I have reached the age of 21. I brought him over to the house a few times, but my parents are so prejudiced against him that I have been meeting him on the sly. And now they even go so far as to threaten me if I'm ever seen with him again. But we're engaged, and hope to be married in the spring. He has a good position and is able to take care of me. And we're so in love with each other.

Now I don't know how to tell my folks of the engagement, and that we hope to be married soon. I've always been a good girl at home, and have done whatever they wanted. And now I think I have a right to happiness. Don't you? UNHAPPY.

I wish you had told me more about this young man, and what makes your parents so prejudiced against him. You are 21, and both very much in love. He has a good job and can take care of you. All this makes him very eligible.

I suggest you take the matter up again with your folks and very gently tell them that you expect to marry this young man in the spring. This will give them a chance to tell you why they object to him.

Nutrition Important To Beauty

By MME. QUI VIVE

The woman who sports jewelry and fur coats and stints on the grocery bill isn't very long-headed. It's stupid of her not to know that the commissary department in the home is all important. The family that is well nourished is usually a happy family. Its members bank up resistance to disease, they are likely to have strong teeth, abundant hair, good complexions.

The amount of food one needs is regulated by the amount of energy one expends. A man doing heavy labor needs 4,000 calories a day. Fatigue lessens the body forces and nourishment aplenty is necessary for blood, tissues, muscles, every cell of the body. The little Pretty who curls up among sofa pillows, never stands if she can sit, can get along on 1,500 calories a day. But she won't have red cheeks. She won't be the life of the party and she won't win any beauty prizes. Laziness impairs the appetite and a poor appetite makes for laziness.

Let little Pretty interest herself in outdoor life, trot around the block half a dozen times if she can't do anything more exciting, and she will sit down to her steak and onions with zestful anticipation.

Business girls must pay heed to the question of nutrition. They bolt toast and coffee, consider that a breakfast. They gobble a snack at lunch, not caring much what it is. By four o'clock they are played out and when they sit down to the dinner table they're too tired to eat. Malnutrition causes excessive fatigue. There's nothing to work on.

Rinse in cold water or wipe off with a damp cloth all your meats, vegetables, and fruits as soon as possible after they are delivered. Canned goods and bottles of milk should be wiped off before they are stored in the refrigerator or cupboard.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"That's my idea," I said, repeating her question. "But it's too bad to make you wait here, Miss Whitlock." I turned to the nurse in sincere apology, but she lifted her hand in protest.

"Why worry about me?" she queried. "I shall be very comfortable, thoroughly lazy and relaxed. How long do you want me to stay?"

"About an hour," I estimated. "We ought to be safely at our new hotel long before then."

"Shall I try to dodge them?" she asked next.

"No, that won't be necessary," I replied. "Just go directly back to the Lansfield as if you had nothing to conceal. That, if they do not find us, will mystify them more than anything else you could do."

Mary chimed in, "When do we get going?"

"Right away," I said picking up my bag which I had brought with me from the sitting room. "Goodbye, Miss Whitlock, and good luck!"

"Good luck to you!" she returned, and when Mary had retrieved her own bag, we went out of the dressing room and traversed the length of the corridor until we came to the emergency exit I had remembered.

"We come out upon the train level," I said, "and directly to the right, only a few steps away, is a door leading to a taxi stand. If we're lucky, we can get one right away."

"Well! we were lucky," Mary commented two minutes later when we were being driven rapidly away from the station. "We got the cab immediately, and I don't believe there was a single sleuth in the offing."

"I'm sure there wasn't." I told her, my own nerves much less taut. "But we'll take no chances, nevertheless."

"How about it, Auntie Madge?" Mary whispered as we paused just outside the door while an obsequious bell boy hurried up to us. "Do you think we've beaten them at their own game?"

Use Fictitious Names.

"I hope so, Mary," I whispered back, and then we were engulfed in the formalities of registration, and of being shown to the rooms we had reserved under the "Back Bay" names we had chosen for our stolen sojourn.

"Mr. ——— is already here, is he not?" I asked. "Will you please let him know we have arrived?"

"At once," the clerk replied, and as we turned to follow the bell boy, we heard him calling "Mr. ———" over the telephone.

"Pinch me, Auntie Madge!" Mary whispered as we went up in the elevator. "I can't believe that I'm really going to see Noel in a minute or two."

My answering smile held relief as well as indulgence, for the glow upon her face and the look of lighted candles in her eyes did much to quiet my qualms concerning her possible subconscious adverse reaction to this reunion with her husband which I had planned.

The elevator stopped and the attendant opened the door, but as we stepped out Mary's lower lip drooped childishly as her eyes searched the empty corridor. She made no oral comment, however, but I knew the cause of her dolor was Noel's failure to greet her at the door of the elevator.

"He probably thought he ought not to come out in the hall," I whispered. "It might cause comment, you know."

Then the door opened, revealing Noel standing in the doorway. But though his eyes were glowing with the joy of reunion, there was something on his face which was closely akin to a frown of displeasure.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

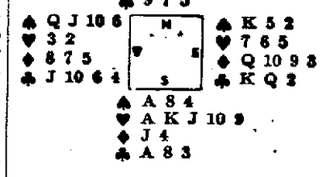
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE LEVEL DEEPER

EVERY FAIR DECLARER knows that when he has the ace and guarded queen of a suit in opposite hands, the best chances to make the queen a winner lies in leading a small card toward it. The same principle applies if a guarded jack is opposite the ace and king of its suit, the difference being merely that the play is one level deeper in the deck.

The bidding on this deal began with South calling 1-Heart, to which North responded with 2-Diamonds. South's next bid was 3-



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

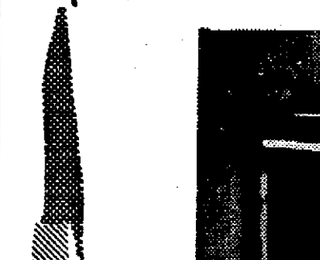
Hearts and North took the contract to 4-Hearts.

West led the spade Q, which South took with the A. He then laid down the hearts A, Q and K and followed with a lead of the diamond J, which lost to East's Q. The opponents then cashed the spades K and 10 and returned a club to South's A. One more club had to be given up, so that the contract was defeated.

When dummy was exposed, it was apparent to declarer that two spade tricks would have to be given up when he lost control, so that he could not afford the loss of two clubs. His only chance therefore was to find the diamond Q with East, so that his correct play was to lead a low diamond from dummy toward his jack. As East has the Q, three diamonds would then be won, and a spot provided for one club loser.

How can South make 5-Diamonds after West has cashed the heart K and followed with the heart A?

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East, Both sides vulnerable).

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Dec. 14.

ANOTHER day of excitement, commotion and disruption, although of not so happy a condition as dominated yesterday, is forecast for this day, judging by rather adverse lunar and mutual aspects. There is a prospect that radical change, travel and romance may give way to activities that are incident to a complete reorganization of the life and its plans. An element of hostility, vexation or real trial might arise from some young person, or an undercurrent of trickery or conspiracy may take the edge off of much delightful anticipation.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for many adverse situations arising from a reorganization of the business affairs and a reorientation of the life to new places, persons and interests. These may manifest largely through the enmity, hostility and aggravation of young people, or the subtle, deceitful or treacherous behavior of others who seem to be actuated by envy or jealousy.

A child born on this day, while energetic, versatile and enterprising, may be inclined to ways of craft and expediency rather than integrity and honest policies.

After freesia plants are through blooming, shake off earth and store bulbs in sand in the cellar until spring, when they may be planted in the ground.

It is important to keep eggs in a clean odorless place, to hold their good fresh quality. Eggs should be kept in the refrigerator but not in the same dish with onions or other foods of strong odor.

DEPUTY BARES 'BRIBE STORY' IN GRALL TRIAL

Tells Jury He Received Money on Two Occasions From Brothel Operator.

ELYRIA —(U.P.)— William G. Smith, former Lorain county deputy, testified today in the bribery trial of former Sheriff William F. Grall that he had known of two occasions when Grall received money from Mrs. Maxine Barbour.

Smith testified that he first met Mrs. Barbour in 1937 and that she told him she wanted to open a brothel. He said he told Grall of the conversation and that Grall said he would handle it himself.

Later, according to Smith, the sheriff apparently changed his mind. Smith said he met Mrs. Barbour in Sandusky.

Judge C. H. Huston of Mansfield, is presiding at the trial.

He testified that six week later she gave him an envelope for Grall, containing $50 and that Grall gave him $20 of this. A few days later, Smith said, Grall asked him to give the entire $50 to Joe Bulzoni of Lorain, reporting that Bulzoni had complained because he was not "cut in."

Later, Smith said, Mrs. Barbour gave him $50 more for Grall, and Grall again gave him $20 and kept $30.

Tells of 'Immunity Deal.'

Smith also told today of the "immunity deal" by which he, Grall and Alfred G. Bauer testified before the grand jury concerning acceptance of money to permit slot machine operations. He said that the three agreed to "make a clean breast" of the affair, but that Grall objected to revealing the deal with Mrs. Barbour.

The state expected to rest its case this afternoon.

Among witnesses subpoenaed for the defense are Common Pleas Judges Guy B. Findley and D. A. Cook, Prosecutor Howard R. Butler, Coroner S. C. Ward, Commissioners Oscar G. Dunn and Rev. Will J Foster, foreman of the grand jury which indicted Grall and Mrs. Barbour.

A subpoena was also out for Mrs. Barbour, who has not been located since shew as jointly indicted with Grall.

GALION BOY, 13, DIES AT HOME

Illness of Two Years Fatal to Carl Derfler; Funeral Rites Wednesday.

GALION—Carl Frederick Derfler, 13, of 410 East Church street, died Monday afternoon at his home following an illness of the past two years. He had been bedfast for the past three weeks. Leakage of the heart and dropsy caused his death.

He was born in Galion June 4, 1925, the son of George and Marie (Kuhn) Derfler.

On account of his health he was forced to give up his schooling two years ago when he was in the sixth grade. He was a member of the Peace Lutheran church and the Sunday school.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Marie Derfler, two brothers, Dean and Marvin, and two sisters, Thelma and June, all at home; his grandparents, Mrs. Ida Kuhn of Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. S. J Derfler of near Lexington. His father and a sister preceded him in death.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday, at the Snyder funeral home with Rev. Philip E. Auer of Peace Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery. The body will be at the home until the time of services.

GANG REACHES INTO SING SING

Mistaken First Time, Underworld Finally 'Gets Its Man.'

OSSINING, N. Y.—(AP)—Underworld killers who slew John F. O'Hara, a young New York financial investigator, by mistake, carried their vengeance inside the gray walls of Sing Sing prison Sunday and fatally stabbed Matthew J. Kane, 41-year-old convict, the man they were after in the first place.

Kane was slashed with a sharpened table knife, which broke in his neck. The wound became infected and Kane died today still stubbornly declining to identify his assailants.

Five convicts were placed in solitary confinement on suspicion as prison authorities carried on an exhaustive probe into the slaying.

DIES IN CRASH

Canton Man, 65, Wed 3 Weeks, Killed Enroute to Florida.

MAYSVILLE, Ky. —(INS)— John Eymann, 65-year-old retired fireman from Canton, O., was dead today and his wife, 50, in a hospital with a fractured leg and head cuts after a head-on collision with a tobacco truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Eymann were married in Canton on Thanksgiving day. They were enroute to Florida for the winter.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

NEW WASHINGTON—Funeral services will be held at 8:15 a. m. Wednesday at St. Bernard's Catholic church for Sylvester Walter Weithman, two and a half month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weithman, who died at the family home last night following an illness of pneumonia. Rev. William Sawong will officiate. Surviving besides the parents are two brothers and four sisters.

REMOVE RAILS

City Workers Tear Up Tracks on Section of East Fourth.

A crew of city workmen was engaged in the removal of the old car rails on East Fourth street between Foster and Scott streets.

D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets, said that the removal of the rails was being made in connection with the repair of the street, which is expected to be completed by Saturday. The center of the roadway will be resurfaced with asphalt.

PREMIER BARES PEACE POLICIES

taken when Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, visits London this week.

Although Jewish emigration, now that Germany is more favorably disposed to it, appeareo to be the uppermost problem, there were numerous possible questions for the agenda, which observers said could be considered by Dr. Schacht, Nontagu Norman, head of the Bank of England, Chamberlain, and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

Financing of Jewish emigration might be tied in with payments by British insurance companies for damage to Jewish property in Germany during the Nov. 10 anti-Semitic outburst.

Chamber Approves Daladier's Requests.

PARIS —(AP)— The chamber of deputies today approved Premier Daladier's request for emergency measures to speed passage of the ordinary and extraordinary budgets for 1939.

The measures, providing that the appropriation bills be debated by ministers instead of by more detailed chapter divisions, were approved by a show of hands.

Even the Socialists backed the government on the vote, which was purely technical and carried no indication of possible future support of opposition to the 1939 allocations.

The "strong man" premier rode his small chamber of deputies majority of 74 votes with a close rein in an effort to get approval of the budget and of financial decree laws he already had issued.

Throughout the night and into the early morning, Finance Minister Paul Reynaud wrestled with the chamber finance committee, finally emerging with a 25 to 17 vote of tentative approval for the ordinary budget of 66,345,00,000 francs (about $1,724,970,000), to meet normal expenses, including a normal program of armament.

Pro-Nazi Movement Gaining In Memel.

MEMEL, Lithuania — (INS) — Memel's pro-Nazi movement gained momentum today on the heels of the week-end parliamentary elections and fresh opposition to the Lithuanian national government.

At a mass meeting, 2,500 Memellanders adopted a resolution calling upon President Antanas Smetona, inaugurated in his fourth term yesterday, to step out of office in favor of a pro-Nazi cabinet. The resolution demanded restoration of the banished Augustine Waldemaras to power.

Thus the Memel German party and Waldemaras' "Iron Wolf" followers appeared teamed up for a drive that may eventually lead to reunion with the reich.

As the result of the elections, the German party under the leadership of Dr. Ernst Neumann claims to have all but three of the 29 seats in the Memel diet. A broadening of the party's powers was the signal for the directory to exercise a police authority almost equal to that of an independent state.

SCHOOL EMPTY

But Teacher Rings Bell Just the Same and Gets Paid.

NEW LEXINGTON—(AP)—The Forestdale rural school opened as usual today with teacher Ida Kinsel ringing a bell as a strike of its 17 pupils entered the ninth week.

O. E. Hearing, county school superintendent, said "We have paid Miss Kinsel the same as the other seven teachers in the district. The 17 pupils on strike are attending school elsewhere."

The pupils walked out of their classes, claiming Miss Kinsel was too severe.

RECEIVES BIDS

GALION — The Galion City Board of Education will receive bids until Jan. 11 for the construction of the new East school building, it has been announced.

The construction is to cost $98,142. Bids are to include the general contract, the heating and ventilating contract for either a warm air plant or a steam heating plant, the plumbing contract, the electrical wiring, the stoker contract and the wardrobe contract.

RESUME AUDIT

ASHLAND—Continuing a special examination of sales tax accounts of the county treasurer's office, two examiners of the Sales Tax division of the State Auditor's department were at work at the court house Monday. The investigation is being conducted by examiners, Walter W. Shafer and J. W. Fawcett.

Shafer and Fawcett are using the witness room in the courthouse as their headquarters for the examination.

Mrs. Caddie L. Poling, 50 Arlington avenue, wife of Von B. Poling, died in the General hospital today after a brief illness. She was born in Columbus Grove and resided in this city 23 years.

The only survivor besides the husband is a brother, Roy D. Jacobs of Lima.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 10 a. m. Thursday with Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Brief services will be held at the Rockport cemetery at 3 p. m. in charge of Rev. Earl Roe of Rockport. Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home.

BRIDE, 14, GOES BACK TO MATE, 60

$1,000 Ring, Luxury Apartment Changes Her Mind.

TALLULA, Ill. — (INS) — With a $1,000 diamond ring and a richly furnished apartment in town, 14-year-old Velma Robinson Greene looked with new favor upon her wealthy 60-year-old husband today.

When authorities in Los Angeles separated Jones Scott Greene from his bride on their honeymoon, the girl said disdainfully:

"I never want to see the old man again."

But yesterday with the consent of her parents to whom Green said he had paid $500 for the girl's hand in the first place, she moved out and rejoined her elderly husband.

DAVEY 'BEQUEATHS' $1,000 RUGS AND $8,000 AUTO TO BRICKER

(By Associated Press)

AKRON – Republican Governor-elect John W. Bricker is the sole "beneficiary" named by Martin L. Davey in an oral gubernatorial "will."

Governor Davey, smiling broadly, told delegates to the 66th annual meeting of the Ohio State Grange last night:

"I bequeath to my successor the four $1,000 rugs in the governor's office. I took all the hell when they were purchased but he can have them."

The executive's rug purchase precipitated a statehouse storm. The appropriations committee refused to earmark funds for the purpose and subsequently the governor said public contributions from "friends" would be used to defray the expense.

"I also bequeath to him the $8,000 sixteen-cylinder Cadillac which the state purchased," Governor Davey continued. "I took all the hell when that was bought, too, but when he gets it, it will be second hand."

Another "bequest" cited by the governor is "the best 'hot mix' roads in the United States."

He said he also "bequeathes" to the governor-elect "a great horde of job-seekers, and members of the 'gimme' army who will call him ugly names if he does not satisfy them, a limited number of true friends who will stick by him when the going gets tough, and the satisfaction that will come from efforts well expended."

Then the governor concluded his "will":

"I know that he will do a good job."

AIDS PROGRESS

Pastor Tells Club Right Use of Leisure Major Factor.

The right use of leisure has been responsible for all progress of civilization, according to Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who was the speaker at today's meeting of the Rotary club, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Speaking on the subject, "The Problem of Leisure," Rev. Roller traced the progressive steps in the use of idle time from the era of prehistoric man to the present.

He presented the thought that early conveniences and primitive implements of warfare were developed during the leisure time of men who found opportunity to think of their needs and find ways to supply them.

New problems of finding right uses for leisure time in this machine age, with its numerous labor-saving devices and shorter working hours were stressed by the speaker, who said that while earlier civilizations had resulted from the right use of leisure, their downfall had also been due to the wrong use of leisure.

Fred Herring was program chairman of the meeting. The Rotary club's annual Christmas party for crippled children will be held next Tuesday, with William C. Mead as chairman of the committee on arrangements

SHOOTS 4, TURNS PISTOL ON SELF

Pennsy WPA Worker Runs Amuck; Domestic Quarrel Blamed.

DARLINGTON, Pa.—(INS)— A shooting spree that resulted in the wounding of four persons and the suicide of the assailant, a 62-year-old WPA worker, in the Robert Hardman home between East Palestine, O., and Darlington, Pa., was investigated today by state police.

A domestic quarrel was believed responsible for the orgy. State policemen said Hardman shot his wife, Rosa, critically wounding her; his daughter, Dorothy, 21; her boy friend, Chester Dickey, 22 and another youth, Raymond Feezle, 24.

Mrs. Hardman was taken to a hospital where attaches said her condition this morning was still serious.

Continues Senior High School on First Grade List

Describing the instruction at Mansfield Senior high school as "well organized and administered," the state department of education today continued the school as an approved first grade high school and recommended it for continued membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The report, based on an inspection of the school three weeks ago by the state department of education, was submitted to H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, by Franklin H. McNutt, state director of the division of instruction.

"Excellent work is being done in science at the school, and the courses in filing and mechanical office equipment are commended," the report said. Teaching was described as "good."

The state department recommended installation of more crafts equipment, sewing machines, and typewriters and a larger appropriation for the library.

Pupils majoring in music should be required to take courses in harmony and history and appreciation of music, and pupils in commercial courses should be permitted to take a year of typing before graduation, the report said.

Inspection of the school was made Nov. 21 and 22 by F. M. Shelton, of the division of instruction, Ohio department of education.

BILL REVIVED

New Anti-Lynch Law Battle Again Looms in South.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Protests for another senate battle over an anti-lynching bill developed today with an announcement by Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) that the controversial measure would be revived.

Van Nuys said he would confer soon with Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), co-author of last session's bill, which was shelved after a southern filibuster.

PAN-AMERICAN ENVOYS STUDY 3 PEACE PLANS

Delegates Speed Work With Hope of Adjourning Parley Before Christmas.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, Peru—Projects to link the Americas by increased trade while co-operating for peace took definite shape today as the Pan-American conference speeded its work in the hope of adjournment before Christmas.

The United States delegation led in the preparation of economic proposals, an important parallel to peace endeavors, and these were to go before the committee on economic problems.

Secretary Hull, in a speech tonight on the progress of the conference, was expected to touch further upon the trade issues.

The peace proposals included plans to guard against both military and political incursion.

Two of them were before the peace committee, that by Venezuela defining aggression and proposing a continental defense system and a Mexican sponsored code of peace.

Ready For Discussion.

A project was maturing with the Argentine and Mexican delegations for consolidation of the western hemisphere and the United States plan to coordinate existing peace accords was ready for committee consideration.

The Argentine delegation last night approved a resolution, under consideration for several days, against foreign political propaganda and this also will be taken up by the committee.

It would deny foreign citizens the exercise of political rights from their countries of origin, and grew out of participation in the Sudetenland annexation election by Germans in the Americas.

The Uruguayan delegation prepared a tentative plan on immigration, presumably referring to Jews and other Europen refugees, but its terms were not fully agreed upon.

Delegates placed much significance in the choice of Alfranio De Mello Franco, former foreign minister of Brazil, as chairman of the peace organization committee, since his country is one of the foremost among the 21 American republics favoring strong organization against outside aggression.

WIDOW, 74, DIES

Mrs. Katherine Robinson Had Been Ill Four Weeks.

Mrs. Katherine Robinson, 74, widow of G. W. Robinson, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Flory, South Boulevards, after an illness of four weeks.

Mrs. Robinson was born in Washington township, Sept. 11, 1864, and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the Congregational church of Little Washington, American Legion auxiliary, and Mother's Home circle.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Margery Ludwig and Mrs. Flory of Mansfield, and Mrs. W. R. Huffman of Marysville; a son, John McPhern of Mansfield; three sisters, Miss Ella McFarland of California, Mrs. F. J. Taylor of Mansfield, and Mrs. I. J. Pollock of Lexington; a brother, G. W. McFarland of Madison township; a grandson, Robert Huffman of Omaha, Neb., and a great grandson.

Services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev Peter Young of the First Congregational church officiating. Burial will be in Little Washington cemetery. The body will remain at the Flory home until Thursday morning.

GIVEN PAROLES

Two Richland, One Holmes Inmate to Leave Prison Farm.

Two Richland and one Holmes county inmate at the London prison farm were among the 54 granted paroles today by the Ohio board of parole, dispatches from Columbus said.

The Richland county inmates are Ralph Bunting, who will be paroled April 1, and Conrad Sheetz, to be paroled June 1. Both were sentenced on Jan. 19, 1938, to serve from one to three years on a charge of non-support.

The Holmes county inmate is John McLain, serving a term for assault of a girl under 14 years of age. He is to be paroled Feb. 1.

The Masonic Temple again this year will follow its annual custom of holding open house on New Years day, the directors voted last night.

BACK ON STAND

Ruth Etting Faces Cross-Quiz Today on Shooting Story.

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Songstress Ruth Etting today faced a raking cross-examination on her indictment from the witness stand of Martin (Colonel Moe) Snyder, the man to whom she was married for 17 years as a would-be killer.

She was to face Attorney Jerry Giesler, criminal lawyer who is representing Snyder on charges of having shot Myrl S. Alderman last October.

Miss Etting, 'the little lady" to Snyder in happier days, spent most of yesterday relating details of her years as the wife of the defendant.

She concluded her testimony with the event that led up to the shooting and a description of the affair itself.

325 PRESENT AT GALION HIGH'S GRID BANQUET

Peden, Coach at Ohio U., Talks at Football Banquet Given by Civic Group.

GALION — The Galion high school football banquet which was held at the Junior high school gymnasium Monday night was attended by 325 guests. The affair was sponsored by the Downtown Coaches association and the Galion high school athletic association, and was held in honor of the high school football teams, co-champions of the N. C. O. league; the high school band organization, the cheerleaders, and coaches.

The dinner fund will go to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Good Samaritan hospital board who prepared the meal. Members of the Girl Reserves and Hi-Y organizations of the high school served the dinner.

Coach Don Peden, Ohio university, Athens, was the principal speaker for the after-dinner program. In his talk he stressed the fact that the record made by the team means little in judging the ability of a coach, and stated that today's game is better than the one of 15 or 20 years ago because the defense is better. He advised the boys to go to college for an education, and make football secondary. At the close of his talk he showed moving pictures of highlights of the Ohio U-Miami university game, and also the Ohio U-Marshall game.

Burnison presented members of his team this year, and Casto Ramsey, last year's captain and quarterback who coached the reserves this year. The cheerleaders came next in the introductions.

In behalf of the Downtown Coaches association, Herman Plack, as president, presented the following lettermen with pictures of the team: Schupp, Jack, Durtsche, Sanderlin, Corrado, Grubaugh, Cline, Chandler, Goldsmith, Hocker, Maidens, Maloy, Kump, Siclair, Parrish, Tuscan, Kleinknecht, Eugene Schreck, and the honorary captain, Ernst. Other team members who had been introduced by Burnison included: Rensch, Jackson, Grosh, Rosella, Dewalt, Dunn, Mansfield, Victor Smith, Guffey, Roop, Black, Heller, Carmel, Gilson, Stone, Williams, Taylor, Junior Schreck, and the managers, Badgley, Harding and Ricker.

HE HATED EGGS

But Wife Had To Have Them . . . She Liked Cake . . . So . . .

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—Ray Shoemaker, according to complaint of his wife, Myrtle, hated the sight of eggs so much he'd smash them on the kitchen floor if he found any in the icebox.

On the other hand, she added, he was very fond of cake.

Keeping cake in the house and eggs out proved a problem for the cake-mixer—in fact, too great a problem.

She sued for divorce.

Police Break St. Louis Strike, Water Supply Saved

TAKE CONTROL OF PUMPS AT IDLE PLANTS

Normal Water Supply Assured; Strike at City-Operated Hospitals Fizzles.

(By United Press)

ST. LOUIS—The second of four pumping stations, shut down by a strike of operating engineers, was reopened early today by police to insure this city of 900,000 a normal supply of water. Water Commissioner John B. Dean predicted that the two remaining stations would be in operation by this afternoon.

Less than two hours after the Bissell Point station, largest in the city, was reopened by police and resumed pumping its 120,000,000 gallons per day into the city's fast-drying reservoirs, the Rocks station, second largest, also resumed operations.

Fail To Obey Order.

Harry F. Kline, business agent for the striking International Union of Operating Engineers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, called a one-hour demonstration strike at all municipally-operated hospitals.

Although Kline called the demonstration at all seven city hospitals, only the City Sanitarium reported that engineers obeyed the order. Sanitarium attaches reported the engineers walked away from their machinery, which continued to operate, and that no disruption of electricity, heat or power occurred.

The three city emergency hospitals: the City Infirmary, Homer G. Phillips, Robert Koch and Isolation hospital, reported no strike or disruption of service.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann issued a statement assuring citizens that they would have water for their own consumption as well as for fire protection.

"The right of the people to have water is above any dispute between rival unions," Mayor Dickmann said. "This is not a question of wages and hours. I am personally willing to negotiate on any questions at issue, but in the meantime I feel it my paramount duty . . . to insure water for domestic consumption and fire protection . . ."

The only water available when the Bissell Point station resumed operations was approximately 200,000,000 gallons stored in city reservoirs, normally little more than enough for a day's supply.

Beightler Looms As Bricker Choice For Highway Post

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Appointment of Lt. Col. Robert S. Beightler, Columbus, as director of highways may be announced at Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker's press conference this afternoon, it was reported today.

Beightler would replace Ivan R. Ault, of Ashland, who was appointed to the job six weeks ago by Governor Davey when John Jaster, Cleveland, resigned.

Reports also were circulated that the job of assistant highway director would go to Hal Sours, of Akron, former Summit county engineer.

Beightler was division engineer in the administration of former Gov. Harry L. Davis and had charge of the Cincinnati-Dayton district. When former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper took office he promoted Beightler to chief engineer and assistant highway director.

Beightler is 45 years old and a native of Marysville. He is assistant chief of staff of the 37th division.

Paints Bright Picture for Business In '39

AYERS ASSERTS MORE JOBS TO OPEN NEXT YEAR

But Economist Warns Pump-Priming Must End for Long-Term Recovery.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Business will be better in 1939, Col. Leonard P. Ayers predicted today.

But before prosperity can return, "pump-priming recovery" must change into a "long-term recovery carried forward by business," he emphasized.

"The coming year now promises to be a period of better employment, rising national income and increased volumes of industrial production," the Cleveland statistician said in his annual forecast.

Specifically, he listed these "probable developments" for 1939:

Industrial production averaging higher than 1938, lower than '37; national income above '37; wholesale prices slowly advancing, but commodity prices not changing greatly; freight loadings up 10-20 per cent from '38; iron, steel, motors output up 30-50 per cent; most new construction since 1930; department store sales nearer '37 than '38; merchandise imports greater than exports; stocks higher than '38, lower than '36; new high records in power, oil refining, tobacco products and average hourly factory wages.

Col. Ayres prepared his predictions for a Cleveland Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Must Halt Sometime.

"The advance in business activity can be relied upon to continue as long as the outflow of public spending remains undiminished, but we know such spending can not go on indefinitely," he said. "That fact raises serious questions about the probable course of business in the third and fourth quarters.

"It is as futile for us to believe that we can spend ourselves rich as for us to suppose that a man can drink himself sober. The fatal weakness of such a recovery is that everyone fears it may be only temporary. Merchants enlarge their stocks but not their stores. Everybody tries to play safe."

The Cleveland Trust company vice president observed "business undertakings are about 40 per cent as attractive as they were in the two preceding decades. x x x x For nearly a decade the great majority of corporations have been losing money instead of making it.

"Capital which does not replace itself consumes itself. We shall continue to consume our capital until we can restore a normal flow of capital issues to provide funds for expanding enterprise."

That, he remarked, called for confidence in the prospects of profit.

Up and Down THE STREET

Whenever there's a Christmas show or ball in Mansfield the same question always arises—despite the fact that the answer is always the same: Is it a strictly dress affair? Of course not. No charity dance in Mansfield has ever been strictly a formal dress affair, and guests attend dressed as they like, some in evening clothes and some in street or business clothes, with the latter predominating. So all you have to do—besides buying a ticket—is put on your best bib-and-tucker, your Sunday disposition and a mantle of good will and go and dance so that people less fortunate than yourself may eat on Christmas day.

A Mansfielder had the unique experience of being honored at the football banquet of an out-of-town school last night. He is Bill MacMichael, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. MacMichael, 214 Lexington avenue, and the affair was the annual Massillon high grid banquet. Bill's parents moved here from Massillon two years ago but he remained there to complete his schooling . . . and, of course, to continue his football career with the state scholastic champions. The fact that he was pretty well thought of as a football player was shown when a song, dedicated to him, was offered at last night's banquet attended by 800.

Edward Arlin, son of H. W. Arlin, Mansfield school board president, has added the signature of Governor-Elect John W. Bricker to his autograph collection, but he had to use some diplomacy to get it. "Tell Mr. Bricker I want his autograph now so I'll have it when he's elected president in 1940," young Arlin told his father when the school board head went to Columbus the other day to confer with Bricker. "If that's the way he feels about it, maybe it's best that he wants it now just to play safe," Bricker told the elder Arlin when asked for his signature.

A slip of the tongue can be very, very embarrassing, a senior high school monitor found out today. About 30 Mansfield professional and business men and women spoke at the school this morning on the value of a college education. They talked to various groups of students, and the talks consumed about 15 minutes. At their close the student monitor attempted to explain how the time consumed by the talks would be made up. "The time that has been wasted this morning will be made up by cutting each of the four morning periods," he announced over the loudspeakers. As soon as he had finished, he knew he hadn't meant to say wasted, but it was too late then!

SET UP COUNCIL

County Businessmen to Form Advisory Group Tomorrow.

Sixty Richland county businessmen are expected to attend a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow to organize the Richland county advisory council.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber, said the council was to be formed under the auspices of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of bringing about a closer working relationship between county and state Chambers of Commerce.

George O'Brien, director of organization relations of the Ohio chamber, is to preside at the meeting.

Williams said that invitations had been extended by the Ohio chamber to the businessmen asking them to attend the session which will be held in the assembly rooms on the fifth floor of the Farmers bank building.

NEW SIMPSON PLANS OKAYED

School Board Asks Bids for Junior High, Sets Award Date for Jan. 2.

Approvng specifications for the new John Simpson junor high school, the Mansfield board of education last night asked for bids on construction of the building and set the award date for Jan. 12.

The building specifications were taken to Columbus today by Supt. W. L. Miller for final approval by the regional PWA office.

The board will open bids Friday for razing the old John Simpson building and work on the new structure is to start by Jan. 20.

Total estimated cost of the new building, exclusve of architects' fees, is $403,372. That figure includes $299,122 for general construction, $25,750 for plumbing, $35,000 for heating equipment, $21,000 for wiring the building for electricity, and $22,500 for classroom equipment.

Board members learned last night that the Steinle-Wolfe Construction company of Fremont, which receved a contract last week for construction of the Johnny Appleseed junior high building, probably will be ready to start excavation for the building late this week, several days ahead of schedule.

Exterior work on the $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school is nearing completion, and contracts for remodeling eight of the city's elementary buildings will be let Friday.

SEES 'EDUCATION' OF EMPLOYES AS SOLUTION TO INDUSTRIAL ILLS

Lead American workmen, don't drive them; bring out the human qualities in them, let them create, and make them appreciate the benefits they are receiving if the nation's industrial system is to survive invading alien forces, A. A. Nicholson, of New York, personnel manager of the Texas company, told members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club last night.

Nicholson spoke to about 180 members of the club at a dinner meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

"There is only one avenue open to the American business man and industrialist as a solution to the present chaos," Nicholson said. "They must educate their employes to do more and better work so more can enjoy the products of industry at less cost and a wider margin of profit.

"Industry is a great drama, built on the dreams of men who made their visions and hopes come true. The leaders of workmen must keep those dreams alive—stir the creative spirit of men, their pride in building things worthwhile, and make them work for something else besides their pay checks."

Nicholson asserted there never was a greater need for leadership than now, and industrial foremen have it within their power to set the business and industrial worlds aright again if they realize they are dealing with men and not machines.

"The average worker is satisfied if he has security and a better standard of living, and both are being provided for employes," the speaker said.

"One of the major problems now is to convince the worker that he has shorter hours, better pay, vacations, and insurance to make conditions much better for him than they were a few years ago.

"Few workers who complain of oppression realize that they are getting 67.4 cents of every industrial dollar in addition to a number of other benefits by the modern age."

The worker's mind must be kept open, and the best way to do that is to tell him the truth about the operation of the plant where he works, Nicholson said.

"This is no time for bed-time stories; workmen should know why business is in a chaotic condition, why wages in some cases must be cut, and why men are idle," he asserted.

Eugene Smart's accordion band furnished music during the dinner hour. Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First M. E. church, gave the invocation.

The meeting was in charge of W. M. Weldon, jr., of the Ohio Brass company, president of the Foremen's club.

UP 30 PER CENT

Report Shows Communicable Diseases Increasing.

Communicable diseases in Mansfield during November increased nearly 30 per cent over October, the monthly report of Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, showed today.

There were 109 cases of contagious diseases recorded last month as compared with 85 in October. The largest increase was shown in chickenpox where 48 were reported in November as against 27 for the previous month. A marked rise in whooping cough was recorded with 14 cases listed while only six cases were shown in October.

Scarlet fever was unchanged with 18 cases reported, the same as last October. The report also listed nine cases of measles, three of pneumonia, two venereal and one of tuberculosis.

Dr. Rehder said the increase was seasonal and not alarming.

COUNTY'S TAX RECEIPTS DROP

Sales Levy Revenue Down $2,700 For Week Ending Nov. 26.

Despite a general increase in sales tax receipts in Ohio for November over the same month last year, collections in Richland county for the week ending Nov. 26 were below receipts for the preceding week, State Treasurer Clerence Knisley reported today.

Collections for the county totaled $8,070 during the last week in November as compared with $10,713 for the preceding week.

In Ohio, receipts for the week ending Nov. 26 amounted to $904,383, an increase of $78,000 over the corresponding week of 1937, Knisley's figures showed.

QUESTIONS GIRL

Court to Go Over Girl's Story Involving Married Men.

A 16-year-old Mansfield high school girl will be brought into county juvenile court for questioning Wednesday morning in an investigation of the alleged association of several married men with high school girls, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said today.

Harry Copper, assistant county probation officer, who questioned the girl last week, was continuing his investigation of the case today. It was understood that he planned to question the men allegedly involved and other girls whom the men were said to have met at noons and evenings.

A two-page statement taken from one of the girls said the men had taken the girls to drinking places and for automobile rides.

Dies Committee, By Own Conduct, Discounted Its Value With the Public

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—Nobody is going to defend the conduct of the Dies committee in permitting a loose-lip person to run off at the face about Jimmy Roosevelt's contributions to churches. And Jimmy himself can be criticized in the matter only because he gave a soft answer to Rev. Gossip.

But to say that this testimony sounds a new low in personal abuse and in the misuse of authority is to forget that the administration itself horned the pitch for this sort of scandal when it singled out opponents of the New Deal for smearing with insinuations of unethical and immoral conduct in their tax returns and again when the senate lobby committee was authorized to investigate the tax returns of men who had lobbied against the reorganization bill.

"There was a time," Jimmy said, in his own story of his income and his tax published last August, "when I was childish enough to think that one's personal income was more or less a personal matter to be revealed only if it became a question of whether one was a thief or something like that."

Well, so thought we all of us, but Jimmy, at least, was protected from an official inquiry which might have searched for bugs in his returns and publicly traced every dollar of his income to its source and, when he did come through, enjoyed the services of a very sympathetic interpreter.

Other Americans, including a few as guiltless of fault as he claims to have been, were not that lucky. And it made no difference whether they were having nervous indigestion or not, and if anyone had been fool enough to say that such an invasion of his privacy was making him sick the White Hause claque would have set up a hilarious propaganda that the dirty economic royalist was suffering from too much caviar, champagne and heavy gravy.

Because he was genuinely sick, he has been depicted as a martyr, although, in the course of his story, he did admit that he used a method having the earmarks of a clever little scheme to effect a saving in his federal and state income taxes, even as other law-abiding citizens.

The outrage against Jimmy in the mouthings of the preacher before the Dies committee, who had no real testimony to offer but merely wanted to gossip to a nation-wide audience, points to the practice of using congressional authority to bulldoze private citizens. It is a conspicuous case but typical of a method of inquiry which can make the sneering examination of a county seat shyster seem like coddling.

The Dies committee undoubtedly has struck pay dirt in its inquiry into un-American activities, but it turns up so much muck for each trace of evidence that even those who hoped against hope that it would settle down and do business in an honorable way will be compelled to give up. The fact that the Communists and the Nazi-Fascists both have squawked in turn proves that the truth turned up occasionally in the course of the inept and incoherent investigation and nobody will be more pleased than they by the final and convincing act of stupidity which will discredit the committee for good.

They will deplore it as a shocking injustice to Jimmy Roosevelt and a symbolic violation of the rights of all innocent private citizens, but they will be jubilant over the smearing of the committee itself by its own ignorant conduct, for every fact of genuine evidence brought out in all this time will be discounted by the public.

The offence against Jimmy does not, however, have any bearing on the questions which he undertook to answer in a favorable, general way, free from the scornful and insinuating questions which other citizens must endure from hostile examiners when, for no more valid reasons, their incomes and taxes are under investigation. The son of the president was spared such inquiry.

Jimmy is not the only one who once was childish enough to think that one's personal income was a more or less personal matter to be revealed only if it became a question of whether one was a thief or something like that. For all that any official agency has done, his income still is a personal matter by contrast with the experience of other private citizens.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The crackle of gunfire and the jingle of spurs have become the dominant motifs in the current Hollywood theme song—and I've been wondering.

Here we have Errol Flynn and Jimmy Cagney ridin' hard and shootin' straight. Here's Tyrone Power practicing the impolite banditry of Jesse James, and Bob Taylor taking his shirt off for roarin' battle in "Stand Up and Fight." Cary Grant and the junior Fairbanks have gone western, in an Indian setting, for "Gunga Din," and Joel McCrea — no stranger to a horse—is back in the saddle for "Union Pacific."

All these former denizens of movie drawing rooms or city streets are occupied in big features which do, in a more colossal way, the same things that the humble vintage western has been doing for years and is still doing. In its small, unquiet way, the garden variety of western has been the backbone of the industry, a sturdy backlog of income for the producers' experimental fires with the so-called "big" stars.

And what are these boys who make the western a profession thinking of the current invasion of their territory by the lads from the other side of the tracks? Buck Jones, for one, recently voted most popular star with the children of London. Gene Autrey, for another, tops in the annual exhibitor poll of western stars. George O'Brien, the big-chested mountain of muscle who five years ago deserted the drawing room for the open range.

I tackled George on it, and I think his views are typical:

"Well, I'm glad the other boys have found out about it," he grinned. "I remember when I made up my mind to go in for westerns exclusively, some of my friends thought I was crazy. Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell, among others, told me so. I can answer now as I could then. What chance as a player, if he wants to make three or four pictures a year, of getting into that many top-notch pictures? In westerns now—"

He shrugged, and he didn't have to go on. In westerns there's never a dearth of good stories. In westerns, there's action—swift, steady, and exciting—to make an audience forget if the story is just a bit familiar. In westerns there's the unfailing appeal of the open country, the mountains, the desert, the plains.

And there's the rest of the answer, to. When the present cycle of "feature westerns" is gone, when Cagney is back in gangland and Flynn is back in swashbuckling boots, when Taylor and Power and the rest have returned to the sparring grounds of young romance, the western careerists will still be riding high. Autry and Jones and O'Brien et al., will still be in the saddle, the forgotten men of Hollywood but the cherished idols of hinterland exhibitors.

Aside from McCrea, the only western "veteran" in the feature outdoor dramas now is John Wayne, the hero of "Stage Coach." Wayne, in a sense, is right back where he started. John Ford took the former prop-boy and gave him an acting chance in his "Salute," and that led to what might have been his big opportunity in the feature "The Big Trail." John didn't star, but from then on he has held a place among cowboy heroes.

TULANE HAS A HARMON, TOO; CROWD TO SEE TYGERS FRIDAY.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THERE appears to be doubt as to who is the outstanding athlete of 1938. The Associated Press gives the honor to Don Budge, but the United Press crowns Henry Armstrong . . . Madison isn't the only school which has a Gene Harmon. There was a Gene Harmon on the Tulane football squad . . . It will probably be necessary to hang out the "S. R. O." sign Friday night when the Tygers open their home season with Hamilton. Hamilton again has what it takes to win basketball games this season judging from its 42 to 13 triumph over Columbus West the other evening . . . Football is much too brutal for the French taste. Parisians agreed after the exhibition by Jim Crowley's touring gridsters that the game is a combination of rugby, soccer, wrestling and bullfighting. They considered the huddle the best part of the game. Whoops, m'dear . . . Carmen Cook, who did some fighting in Mansfield rings some years ago, writes from Bridgeport, Conn., that he would like to return to Mansfield as a wrestling impressario . . . Tom Greulich of Lucas, who led the County league in scoring last season, has scored just one basket in the last two games after tallying 18 points against Ontario in the opener. But Lucas rooters are not worried.

Now Reds Have Got Both Bill, Jimmy.

GRIDIRON representative of Indiana finished the season with the low score for the nation's major teams. The Hoosiers scored only 21 points in eight games, two on safeties. But the most points opponents scored against the Hoosiers in any game was 14. . . . Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, says that when the Reds went after Bill McKechnie as manager, Jimmy Wilson, late of the Phils, was second choice. Wilson was recently signed by the Reds as coach. . . . A recent survey of the nation's high schools revealed that 99 per cent play basketball, but only 42 per cent maintain football teams. Baseball is next with 34 per cent and track is sponsored by 32 per cent. . . . The football coach who tried to put Duke on the football map more than a decade ago will try to wipe it off when the Blue Devils meet Southern California in the Rose Bowl. Howard Jones, Trojans' coach, was head mentor at Duke in 1924. . . . Tony Galento has a sign over his training quarters which reads: Knockout victims—Ettore, Pack, Haynes, Mann Massera, Singer, Thomas and Pneumonia. . . . An average salary of $6,107 is paid to a head football coach as compared with $5,158 for the highest pair professor, according to statistics covering 100 American colleges. . . . Only seven high schools in Maryland have football teams. Compare that with 540 in New York, 478 in Pennsylvania and some 450 in Ohio.

Sports Chatter

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Some of the boys came to the major league meeting wanting to know why Bucky Harris handed the Giants the National league pennant by giving 'em Zeke Bonura . . . and others were wondering just what Bill Terry would do (outside of tearing his hair) when those line shots start going right through Zeke and out into right field . . . One thing about these meetings, you never know where the firecracker's gonna bust next . . . Take that Freddy Huchinson things, f'instance . . . In all the chinning and gassing around the hotel lobbies, it was either the Yanks or the Pirates for the coast kid—so up come the Tigers and grab the brass ring. . . . One of the reports around the lobbies is that Dutch Clark, as well as Cliff Battles, is on the list for the Cleveland pro grid Rams' coaching job.

The Tigers and Indians are slated to get together on that Averill-Fox deal by nightfall . . . With Denny Galehouse and Elden Auker also changing monkey suits in the swap. . . . And another bit of gossip says Frankie Frisch will never land with the Giants this year—but may find a spot with Pittsburgh. . . . The American leaguers at their meeting today are going to talk about a new bat, with (of all things a hollow in the tip big enough to set a golf ball . . . There's more weight in the few inches where the ball generally meets the wood—and it's supposed to help the hitters . . . As though those apple-belters needed help. . . . Looks like Henry Iba's Oklahoma Aggies basketballers really have something there . . . or was it the effect of opening their new half-million dollar field house that caused them to knock off Phog Allen's Kansans twice over the week-end?

Seen around the poted palms, Lippy Leo Durocher, snappies dresser in town, sporting a pea green fedora and a classy camel-hair coat . . . And secretive as a house-detective about the Buddy Hassett deal.

Tigers Obtain 'Hutch'

Put Up $30,000, 4 Players for Hutchinson as They Outbid Yankees.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—From all four corners of the baseball world officials, club owners managers and players converged on New York today for the three-day run of the annual mid-winter major league meetings, with rumors of trades filling the air.

Detroit started things moving by announcing the acquisition of Fred Hutchinson, right-handed pitching star of the Pacific Coast league. To obtain the 19-year-old sensation from Seattle, Detroit relinquished cash reported to approximate $30,000 and four players—Second Baseman Tony Piet, Outfielder Jo-Jo Moore, both veterans, and two youngsters, First Baseman George Archie, and a right-handed twirler, Edgar Selway.

Hung Up 25 Wins.

The Tigers outbid the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh for Hutchinson who, in his first year in organized baseball after stepping from the Seattle high school diamond, won 25 games and lost seven.

This transaction re-opened the drive for players following the warm-up deals completed at the recently adjourned minor league meetings at New Orleans.

The Tigers' proposed deal with the Cleveland Indians seemed definitely off, but the former reportedly were dickering elsewhere in an attempt to rebuild for a battle with the Yankees for American league supremacy. Other reports were prevalent, too, but nothing advanced beyond conjecture.

Meanwhile, Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants announced that he was inclined to stand pat on the refurbishing of his team accomplished at New Orleans. He went so far as to predict that the Giants, Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals would make up the National league's first division next summer—and he picked them in that order.

So far in the winter bartering he has obtained Catcher Ken O'Dea, Shortstop Billy Jurges and Outfielder Frank Demaree from the Cubs in exchange for Catcher Gus Mancuso, Shortstop Dick Bartell and Outfielder Hank Leiber, and has reached into the American league to take Zeke Bonura away from the Washington Senators as a first base bolsterer.

But while he has been active in rebuilding his forces for the forthcoming pennant dash, the rest of the moguls in both circuits have accomplished little, or nothing, in their efforts to strengthen, and anything can happen in the next few days.

It was generally agreed that considerable shopping is going on as the customary by-play to the major league meetings proper, where matters of routine will be dispensed with today and tomorrow by the National and American league in separate conferences and on Thursday in a joint session. The latter will be presided over by Commissioner Landis Ball on Program.

Major matters exected to come up for consideration concern the ball. The National league will ask that it be made uniform for both leagues, and President Ford Frick, of the National, is expected to suggest that his circuit permit use of the new yellow ball when conditions warrant it.

The latter, invented by a color expert and tried out last season by the Brooklyn Dodgers, was found to offer more visibility when the pitcher is throwing out of a background of shirt-sleeved bleacherites, with the result that its use supposedly would tend to lessen injuries to batters.

Whether the American league will permit night baseball, as the National is doing, also is expected to come up and result in lively discussion as the decks are cleared of official debris in preparation for next season

Goes to Extremes In Cage Captains

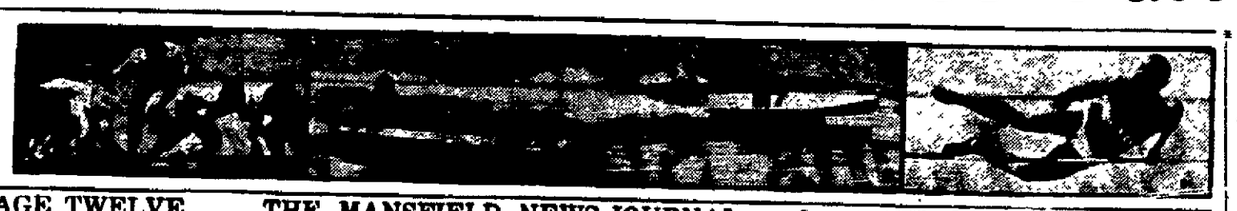
800 PAY TRIBUTE TO MASSILLON TEAM

Tribute was paid to the state champion Massillon high school football squad at a banquet last night. The event attracted a crowd of 800, which included guests from all over the state. Lou Little, Columbia university coach, was the principal speaker.

Mansfielders who attended the affair were Coach Russ Murphy of Mansfield high, who was one of the speakers, and Oscar Ruhl of The News-Journal. Center Earl Martin was announced as the 1939 captain at the banquet.



'Chuck' Adds 26 Points as Toledo Wins

Ashland Stages Rally to Trim Holbrook, 41 to 33.

That indomitable perennial of the University of Toledo's cage quintet, one Charles Chuckovits of the sharp eye, is at it again.

The lad whose annual "take" in basketball points resembles a suburban address collected 26 units last night as Rockets swamped Defiance college 57 to 21. Chuckovits thus accounted for an even 50 points in two contests of the budding season. He looped 11 field goals and four free throws against Defiance.

Beloit (Wis.) came home in a walk in an intersectional tilt against Oberlin. The score was 41 to 29. Tamerlis, Beloit center, and Forward Bob Becker of Oberlin shared scoring honors with 11 markers each.

The Eagles of Ashland college scored a sizzling 41 to 33 victory over Alfred Holbrook in a second-half spurt. Ashland trailed at the half, 23 to 16. With the count knotted at 33-all, Ashland sank seven points in rapid succession to cinch the contest. Richcre a guard, sparked the victors' attack with 16 points, although Forward Games of Holbrook took the honors with a total of 19.

Capital of Columbus came back with a speedy offensive in the second half to defeat Wilmington, 41 to 38. The Wilmington quintet held a 23 to 12 advantage at the half. Capital's forwards, Weaver and Helmich, netted a dozen tallies apiece.

A brace of former all-Ohio forwards, Ralph Harden and Harry Adams, led an alumni contingent to a 39 to 32 victory over Muskingum's varsity. At Cleveland, Western Reserve chalked up its third consecutive win by humbling Fenn, 48 to 15. The touring Wittenberg cagers crushed Juniata college at Huntingdon, Pa., 52-38.

Bosko Scores 22 Points

Leads Bears to Win in Settlement League.

With Bosko setting the individual pace, the Bears defeated the Lions, 39 to 28, in an Intermediate basketball league game at the Friendly House last night.

Bosko scored 22 points to set a new scoring record as he dropped in 10 goals and a pair of free throws. The Red Birds edged the All Stars, 18 to 15, in the other tussle on the program.

The Tigers and Bulldogs registered victories in the Senior colored league at the Settlement. The Tigers topped the Wildcats, 22-18, while the Bulldogs eked out a 11 to 9 triumph over the Bombers.

Winners Face Losers at Y

Upsets Likely in Games in Church A League.

Winners of the opening games will meet the losers in tilts scheduled Wednesday at the Y. M. C. A. in the Class A Church league.

Naturally, lost week's victors will be favored in this week's games, but several upsets are likely. None of the losers was badly beaten They all promise to make it interesting for their rivals before the curtain is rung down.

In the first game on Wednesday's program, First Lutheran engages Temple M. E. The Lutherans are the defending champions.

First M. E. meets St. John in the second game, with a meeting between the Mayflower and Park Avenue Baptist clubs following. Central M. E. and Episcopal clash in the final game.

Sam Leslie Sent To Jersey City

NEW YORK—(INS)—Acquisition of First Baseman Henry "Zeke" Bonura, Washington Senator slugger, caused the New York Giants today to send Sam Leslie, one of their initial sack guardians, to the Jersey City farm club.

Release of Leslie instead of First Baseman Johnny McCarthy was somewhat of a surprise to many Giant supporters.

Blondy Ryan, the "man of destiny" in the Giants' 1933 pennant triumph, was named manager of the Clinton, Ia., club in the Three-I league, another New York farm.

Bowman was the only undefeated club in the Grade School Basketball league today.

The Bowman street cagers hung up their fifth victory of the season and handed Hedges its first setback by a 12 to 7 count at the senior high school yesterday.

Held scoreless in the first and third periods, Bowman came back with eight points in the final quarter to win the decision. It trailed 5 to 4 at the half. Morehead led the winners with eight points.

Led by Brooks, who scored 11 points, Bushnell won over West Fifth, 19 to 16, to retain a share of second place.

In the other games, Newman stopped Woodland, 10 to 7; Brinkerhoff edged Carpenter, 6 to 4, and Prospect halted Western, 11 to 6.

Adds Second Bout to Card

Nolan Signs Wahlberg and Lipscomb for Friday Show.

Whitey Wahlberg, Duluth, Minn., light-heavyweight, will return to the local wrestling pad Friday night. Halted in his march toward a title match with Billy Weidner when the Great Mephisto scored a pile-driver victory over him recently, the blond Swede is determined to recoup his lost prestige.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality club has selected a tough opponent for Wahlberg, the rival in question being Jack Lipscomb of Indianapolis. The latter is a newcomer to this section and little is known of his ability. Advance notices, however, have labelled him as one of the roughest matmen in the division and Wahlberg will be hard-pressed to score a victory.

Signing of the Wahlberg-Lipscomb affair will augment the bout already scheduled between Everett "Silent" Rattan, Toledo deaf-mute, and Walter Stratton, the "mail order" strong man from Leetonia, Ohio.

DROPS FOOTBALL

CHICAGO—(INS)—Intercollegiate football was a thing of the past for the Blue Demons of Depaul university today. The school dropped the sport from its athletic program because of lack of interest.

Another Point For Giants

Gil Dobie Quits Boston Grid Post

NEWTON, Mass. — (INS) — A one-sentence letter signed by "Gloomy Gil" Dobie today terminated the 59-year-old mentor's stay at head football coach at Boston college at the expiration of his current $10,000 yearly contract next April.

The resignation came in the face of rumors that Dobie would not be retained. It contained no hint of his future plans, stating: "I wish to advise that I am not a candidate to succeed myself as football coach at Boston College."

SQUAD SELECTED FOR OHIO STATE COAST TRIP

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The names of the 12 Ohio State basketball players who will make the trip to the Pacific coast for a series of games during the Christmas holidays were made public by Coach Harold Olsen today. They were:

Captain Jimmy Hull, Dick Baker, Dick Boughner, Bob Lynch, Bill Sattler, John Schick, Mike Mickelson, Bob Stafford, Jack Dawson, Jed Mees, Don Scott, and Charley Maag.

ROBERT SHADE and the Westinghouse Electric club shared honors with the undefeated Yuncker Sports quintet in the City Class A basketball league program on the Mansfield high planks last night before a crowd of 200.

The lanky forward established a new individual scoring record as he led the Westinghouse club to its first City league win of the season with 21 points.

11th For Sports.

Jimmy Breres' fast-stepping Sports, led by Johnny Reese, Lexington high coach, registered their 11th consecutive circuit triumph and assured themselves of at least a share of the opening round championship.

Shade tallied his points to lead the Electrics in a thrilling last-quarter rally to decision Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds in the second game, 35 to 34, while the Sports turned back an inspired Elks machine by a 25 to 22 count to jump into first place in the league race.

The Westinghouse victory gives it an opportunity of sharing the crown with the Sports whom it meets in the final game of the initial round next week.

Yuncker's outfit broke loose with a brilliant opening-half scoring spree to take a lead that was never relinquished as it fought to defend the title won last year.

The Lodgemen, paced by Tom Farrell, who dropped in 11 points, out-scored the Sports after the intermission, but were unable to overcome the advantage piled up in the first and second chapters.

Although the Elks had numerous under-the-basket shots in the opening half, they couldn't locate the bucket.

Breres' cagers limited the losers to a pair of goals and a free throw as they marked up the command-

Doolittle's 654 High In Club League

Garrison, Michaels Other Scoring Leaders.

Harold Doolittle of the Tracy & Avery club held the spotlight in matches bowled on the Meder Recreation alleys last night. Doolittle hit the wood for a 654 total, which he opened with a pair of 247's. He led his teammates to two wins over the Commercial Managers in the Club handicap league.

Featuring a middle game of 243, George Garrison of the Mansfield Savings bank came through with a 648. Banks contributed a 609 as the Bankers hung up a 2806 total, which was good for a pair of wins over the Baku Grotto.

Henry Michaels came up with a 647 to lead the Liederkranz club to a 2743 series, but the count was good for only one win over the J. A. C. club.

Henry Brinkman socked out an even 600 to lead the American Legion to a 2753 total. However, the Legionnaires won only one game from the Page Dairys.

Rams to Face Strong Foe In Crestline

Madison high school basketeers will open this week's court activities in the vicinity tonight when they travel to Crestline to engage Coach Merle Hutson's undefeated quintet.

The Onodagos stack up as the strongest foes the Rams will tackle this season, and they find it difficult to stop the Crestline club.

The Hutsonmen have played two games with Class A foes. They defeated Norwalk in their opener and took the measure of Bucyrus last week. They will be seeking their third straight game tonight.

New 1939 DODGE TRUCKS

"TRUCK-BUILT" IN GIANT NEW TRUCK PLANT TO BRING YOU...

WHAT "TRUCK-BUILT" MEANS—Dodge spent millions on this giant new truck plant especially engineered to build trucks. Dodge created new processing methods, built great new machines of almost superhuman accuracy to produce a new line of extra-quality trucks, priced with the lowest. So, in a few words, "truck-built" means "more truck for your money than ever before!"

NEW STYLE..ECONOMY!

NEW Larger Cabs...NEW Rust-proofed Metal... NEW Tough Amola Steel in Vital Parts...NEW Bigger Express Bodies...Sensational NEW Values!

FOR 1939, Dodge offers a complete line of sturdy, "truck-built" ½, ¾, 1, 1½, 2 and 3-ton trucks. Produced in the giant new Dodge truck plant, these new trucks are built to cost amazingly less to own and operate. In them you will find not just a few, but dozens of important new features. For example, due to huge new processing machinery, cabs and panel bodies as well as all sheet metal, are now rust-proofed, an advancement new to the truck world! New front bumper construction means extra strength. New "Amola" Steel means stronger springs and axles. New gas tanks are welded and spring mounted. Dodge now invites you to see for yourself how these new trucks revolutionize values in the lowest price field. Take a test, that's all Dodge asks. See your Dodge dealer.

The Sports held a 5-1 lead in the opening stanza, a 12 to 7 advantage at halftime, and although they were outscored in the third stanza, went into the final frame sporting a 14 to 9 lead.

Farrell sank a couple of rebounds in the fading second of the affair, but his efforts were not enough.

The Hi-Speeds were again short on reserve material last night, with Delnor Goldsmith and George Nana out of the lineup, but put up a real battle against the Electrics.

Staked To Early Lead.

Shade kept George Percy's outfit in the thick of the contest throughout The Westies scored 17 points in the opening half and Shade contributed 13 of them. He added eight more after the intermission.

The Hi-Speeds led, 6-5, in the first quarter, 20 to 17, at the half and went into the last period leading, 30 to 27. But failed to halt the spectacular rally unleashed by the Electrics.

Gene Brandon, playing his first game with the Hi-Speeds, and Earl Herrick, player-manager, paced the Hi-Speeds with eight points apiece. Fritz Vogel followed Shade in the scoring column with six.
